Man Who Brutally Assaulted Two Girls Saturday to be Examined — Other Cases in Court

The novel and brutal spectacle of a partially intoxicated man striking two girls to the ground Saturday night on Central street aroused the ire of passersby to such an extent that they seized the perpetrator of the outrage and held him until an officer made his appearance and placed the man under arrest.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT

Case Against Fifield Estate on Trial—Judge Pratt Presides at Waived Session

When superior court reconvened at the county court house on Gorham street this morning the jury in the case of Margaret L. Boody vs. Inez M. Harding reported a verdict of $25 for the plaintiff. The action was one of tort to recover for severe injuries claimed to have been sustained by Mrs. Boody when a board walk upon which she was walking broke and threw her to the ground. Albert S. Howard for the plaintiff and J. Gilbert Hill for the defendant.

O'Connor vs. Hill. The next case called was that of James A. O'Connor vs. Amos F. Hill and Dora A. Chase, administrators of the will of the late George W. Fifield. John J. and William A. Hogan appeared for the plaintiff and Tylar and Young for the defendants.

The plaintiff claims that the defendants' testator owes him the sum of $480 for work and labor performed by him from August 1, 1910, to January 30, 1911, at the plant of the Fifield Machine company.

The defendants deny the allegations in the plaintiff's writ and declaration and state that if the testator ever owed the plaintiff any money, the latter has been paid. They further claim that if the plaintiff ever entered into any contractual relationship for employment with said testator, the said contract for employment terminated on or about August 1, 1910, and that the defendant was paid in full for services to that date.

The evidence in the case of O'Connor vs. Amos F. Hill and Dora A. Chase, administrators of the will of the late George W. Fifield, was completed shortly after noon and the case was given to the jury.

Jury Waived Session. In the superior court session, without jury, before Judge Pratt, this morning the case of Edward W. Arnold vs. George B. Thompson, co-partners under the name of Arnold, Thompson & Co., vs. George Palantios and Elias Doanokos, co-partners under the name of George Palantios & Co., was heard.

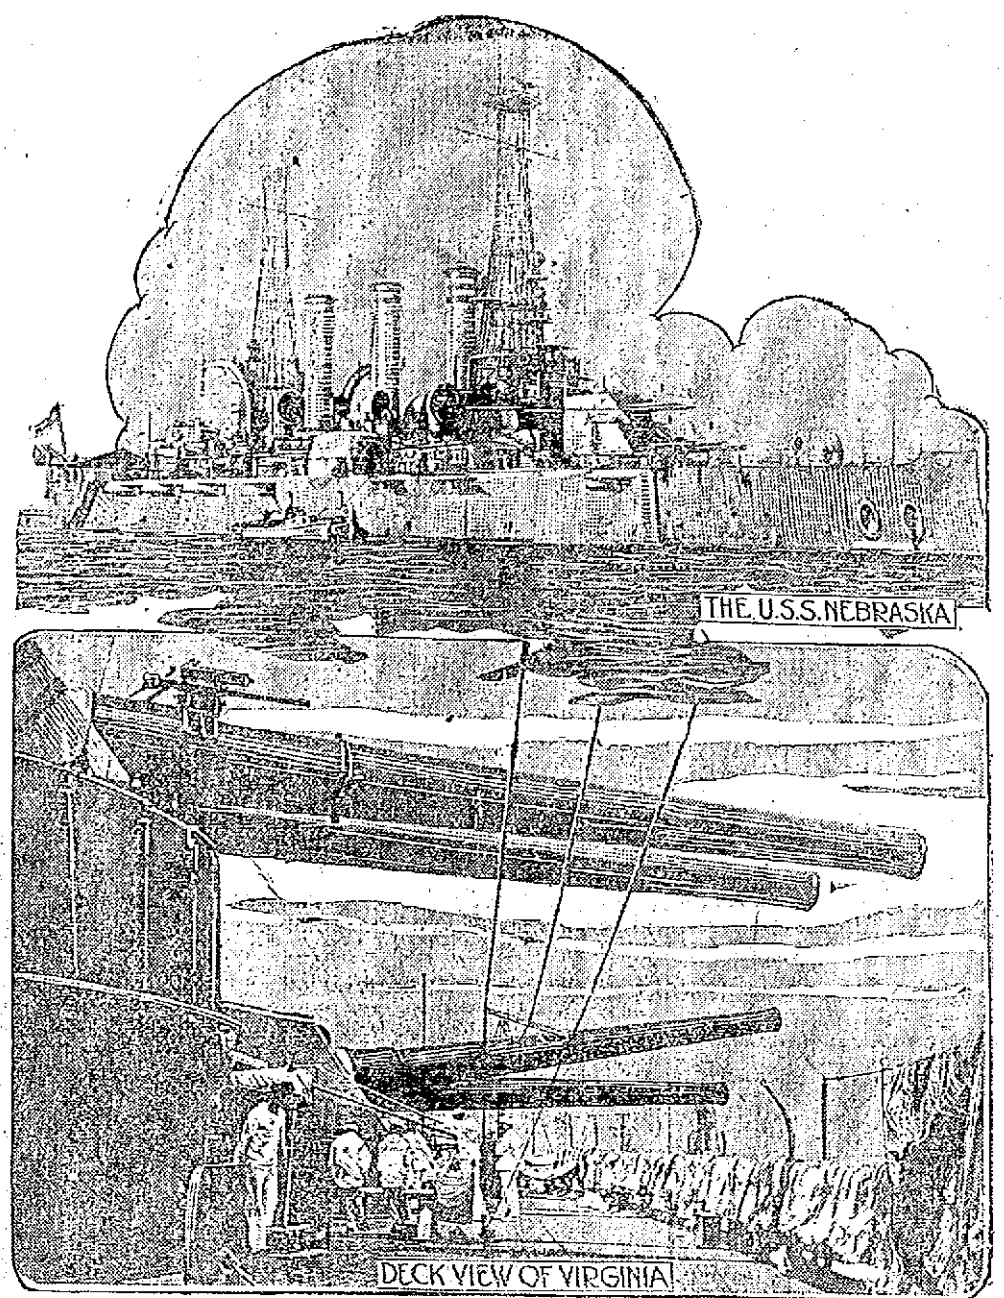

F. A. Fisher for the plaintiff and Fisher Pearson for the defendant. The plaintiff's claim that on August 7, 1912, they and the defendants entered into a contract wherein the plaintiffs undertook and agreed to sell to the defendants, and the defendants agreed to purchase from the plaintiffs, 200 barrels of flour at $4.50 per barrel, at which 100 barrels to be shipped shortly after September 1, 1912, and the remaining 100 on request of the defendant after November 1. Upon the arrival of said instalments of flour the defendants were to pay the price agreed by accepting draft payable at the Lowell Trust company. It is claimed that the defendants contrary to their agreement refused to accept the draft after 100 barrels of flour had been shipped. The shipment was then stored at the Bay State Warehouse company and storage charges have accrued and there has been a great loss in the market premium of said flour.

The plaintiffs claim that the defendants owe them because of refusing to accept said 100 barrels of flour.

U.S. WARSHIPS READY TO LAND MARINES

Pres. Wilson Still Believes the Huerta Government is Crumbling — Supply Ship to Start for Mexico

VERA CRUZ, Nov. 24.—The American fleet in Mexican waters is ready to land men at any moment here or at Tampico or Tampico. The vessels carry a total of about 2000 well trained marines. In the illustration the United States ship Nebraska is shown, together with a photo taken from the decks of the Virginia, showing her guns pointing at the city of Vera Cruz. These craft are two of the leading members of the squadron. That there is immediate peril to the oil tanks at Tampico and Tampico was indicated by the information of Rear Admiral Fletcher that at the request of Rear Admiral Boush he had sent the battleship New Hampshire to Tampico. This movement was made without instruction from Washington and without the knowledge of the Washington authorities until after the New Hampshire was on her way. The Louisiana is already at Tampico, and there was keen speculation to understand why the New Hampshire was sent.

LAWRENCE MILL MEN READY TO ARBITRATE

Agent Parker Says State Board Should Retire and Leave Matter of Arbitration in Other Hands

The mill men of Lawrence are willing to arbitrate the question of hours with the strikers. This statement was made to the state board of arbitration and conciliation, this morning, by Agent W. E. Parker of the Pacific mills and, incidentally, Mr. Parker made it very plain to the state board that it should retire, as gracefully as possible, and leave the matter of arbitration in other hands.

City Engineer Kearney is busy on bridge estimates for next year, having been asked by Commissioner Donnelly to look over the bridges with an idea of rebuilding some of them under the form of construction used in the Moody street canal bridge, concrete arches reinforced by hybrid self-centering arches which require no wooden forms in which to place the concrete.

ARMY AVIATORS KILLED RECOUNT VOTES

LIEUTENANTS ELLINGTON AND KELLEY FELL 80 FEET FROM AEROPLANE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 24.—Lieutenants Ellington and Kelley, first division of the army aviation corps, were killed today in a fall of about 80 feet in an aeroplane. The accident occurred across the bay from San Diego on the grounds of the army school on North Island.

Kelley was first lieutenant in the 25th infantry and Ellington, first lieutenant in the third cavalry, U. S. A.

14 FATALITIES FROM AVIATION. WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The deaths of Lieutenants Kelley and Ellington today make a total of 14 fatalities from aviation in the government service, 13 in the army and one in the navy, since experiments first began at Fort Myer in 1908. Seven have met death this year.

In aviation accidents of all kinds the world over, 365 men have been killed since 1908; this year's fatalities numbering 107.

Both aviators were single. Lieutenant Ellington was born in North Carolina in 1889 and his next of kin is a brother, J. O. Ellington, of Raleigh. He was detailed to the aviation service in September, 1912, and has been serving on aviation fields at Marblehead, Mass., College Park, Md., Palm Beach, Fla., and Texas City. He went to San Diego last June.

Lieutenant Kelley was born in March, 1881. He was detailed to the aviation division last March and has been at Texas City and San Diego. Shoe Workers, Tuesday eve, Asso.

STATE PENSION FUND. PUBLIC HEARING AT ALBANY, N. Y. TODAY ON QUESTION TO HELP WIDOWED MOTHERS

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 21.—The commission appointed by the state legislature to investigate conditions and report on the advisability of providing a state pension fund for widowed mothers gave its first public hearing today. The proposition was opposed by Edw. T. Devine, secretary of the charity organization society and a professor in Columbia university and the school of philanthropy.

Dr. Devine declared against any legislation that would change the present method of looking after the poor of New York city. He was opposed, he said, because no idea, so far, had been advanced regarding the approximate cost of the scheme and further because if pensions were provided the voluntary contributions from individuals for charitable purposes would fall off to a marked degree and confusion would result in the work of the organization.

Dr. Devine objected also to the principle of the endowment of motherhood.

SHOT AT POSTOFFICE MESSENGER. LAWRENCE, Nov. 24.—The holding up of a postoffice messenger and a stabbing affray kept the police busy Saturday evening. A man who is said to have confessed to the stabbing is in the toils, but search for the gunman who made the unsuccessful attempt on the postoffice messenger has so far been fruitless.

The messenger is James Cook of 19 Bennington street. He was delivering a special letter near the Tuberculosis hospital in South Lawrence and was peering along a lonely road, when two masked men sprang toward him from the bushes at the side of the road. They shouted to him to halt but young Cook believed he wouldn't halt. Instead he went low over the handle of his bicycle, swerved out of the path slightly to escape the two men, and then split the wind almost as fast as the two bullets whizzed by his ears. Cook reported the affair to the police.

LOCAL MILL TO CLOSE

FOR THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY—CARPET MILLS TO CLOSE FOR REMAINDER OF WEEK

It was announced today at the Bigelow Carpet Co. that the plant will close its doors Wednesday evening for the remainder of the week. This mill has been through a rather dull period for the past several months, but orders are now coming in and it is hoped by the first of the year the entire plant will run full time.

Inasmuch as there is not very much doing at the present time it was thought best to close the plant Wednesday evening on account of Thanksgiving and not open again until Monday morning, for in this way the employees will be given an opportunity to go out-of-town if they so desire. All the cotton mills will close Thursday only.

Saco-Lowell shops. The Saco-Lowell shops a week ago increased its working hours from fifty to fifty-four hours per week, and accordingly the new working schedule is from 7 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., and Saturday from 7 a. m. to 12 m. The plant will close Thursday.

LIVELY DUMP FIRE. A dump fire near the Textile school began to assume dangerous proportions this morning about 2:30 o'clock and a still alarm was sent in. Hose 10 was dispatched to the scene and had the blaze under control within a short time.

JOHN DOE INQUIRY

Dist. Atty. Whitman to
Place More Testimony
Before Grand Jury

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Pending the hearing of further testimony at the John Doe inquiry into charges that contractors on state jobs were coerced into making campaign contributions, District Attorney Whitman planned to place before the grand jury testimony relative to the allegations that James K. McGuire, former democratic mayor of Syracuse violated that section of the corporation laws making it a misdemeanor to solicit from a corporation funds for political purposes.

James McGuire is said to be at present on his way to South America. His brother, George H., recently described on Friday at the John Doe inquiry a scheme under which it was proposed to obtain state contracts for such corporations as contributed to the democratic state committee and gave, in addition, a commission on their sales to the McGuire. Corroboration of this, in a specific instance, Mr. Whitman expected to obtain today from William Condit, a party worker.

It was understood that Condit would swear that James McGuire came to him in the summer of 1910 and volunteered a campaign contribution of $500 and a commission of one cent a gallon on all products sold the state to see that his materials were used. Condit says he refused.

Violation of the general corporation laws in soliciting a campaign contribution is punishable by a year in the penitentiary and a fine of $1500.

MATHEW INSTITUTE MEETING

Arrangements for observance of the 32nd Anniversary to be held in January

There was a good sized attendance of members at the regular meeting of the Mathew Temperance Institute yesterday morning. Vice President John J. O'Neil was in the chair. A considerable amount of business was transacted.

The plans for the 32nd anniversary of the society in Lowell were advanced and the event is scheduled to take place early in January. The following are on the committee in charge of the arrangements:

Harry Welch, chairman; William H. Carey, secretary; George F. Briggs, James E. McKee and John M. Coughlin.

Arrangements for the annual social and dance were practically completed and the committee in charge of this event selected the following officers:

Michael J. Doyle, general manager; John E. O'Neil and Charles McQuade, assistants; Edward A. Welch, floor director; Robert Armstrong, assistant; Michael J. Sheffield, chief aid; Miss John J. Townsend, Bernard A. Connor, Felix H. Brady, Daniel P. McKenna and Andrew J. Welch.

Rev. Father O'Callaghan of Chicago, and Mr. Edwin Mulreedy of Rockland, delegates to the anti-alcoholic congress held at Milan, have returned and have stated that the congress accepted an invitation to the next gathering in this country. Rev. Fr. Halloran, president of the Archdiocesan union, has appointed Secretary Wm. H. Carey as a member of the committee in charge of the annual evening party which is to be held in Boston some time in January.

Mr. George H. Briggs gave an interesting report of the work of the Catholic Total Abstinence union. Some of the members express the opinion that it would be well to return to the former custom of holding meetings on Tuesday evening instead of Sunday. This matter will be taken up at the next meeting. There was also a tentative discussion concerning the holding of a reunion of present and former members. Pres. Sullivan, of the Bay State Street railway, a former member has kindly consented to speak at this event.

Addresses were made by Frank Lincoln and John J. Baxter.

HOLY NAME SOCIETIES

TO UNITE IN A UNION SERVICE
IN THE NEAR FUTURE—DATE
TO BE ANNOUNCED LATER

That all the Holy Name societies of this district are soon to join in a union service in Lowell, was recently decided, and it remains for the director of the societies to complete the final arrangements as to the date and place of this event.

Last Monday, the directors of all Holy Name societies held a congress in Boston at which important matters referring directly to the propagation of these organizations were discussed, and it was in connection with this convention that the directors determined to hold a union service in Lowell. Besides the societies of Lowell, there will take part those of Billerica, Chelmsford, Tewksbury, Ayer, and other adjacent towns. Nearly every Catholic parish has a growing society, while those in Lowell are especially large. Last winter a union service of the Lowell societies was held in the church of the Immaculate Conception and that great edifice was crowded.

The members of the various Holy Name societies will receive holy communion in the morning with the usual services and will hold the union services in the evening in one of the larger local churches. There will be vespers, benediction, a sermon by a prominent speaker, and music by the specially selected Holy Name choirs.

Thanksgiving Services

The Thanksgiving services at the Catholic churches throughout the city on next Thursday will in most cases consist of the usual morning masses, with sermons on Thanksgiving. At St. Michael's, however, there will be a solemn memorial mass for the deceased members of the Holy Name society while at eight o'clock at the church of the Immaculate Conception there will be a mass celebrated for the benefactors of the church; the parish mass at 5 o'clock. At the high masses yesterday morning, the preachers spoke on topics appropriate to the Thanksgiving season, urging the spirit of gratitude to God for many favors vouchsafed during the past year.

St. Peter's

On Thursday, Thanksgiving morning, at 8 o'clock, there will be a mass celebrated for the repose of the souls of the deceased members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H. and a large delegation of the members will be present.

The choir will soon begin rehearsals for the Christmas music, and it is expected that an unusually elaborate program will be prepared for that occasion.

Yesterday at all the masses, formal announcement was made of the fact that an opera will soon be presented in the Opera House by the members of the choir of the Immaculate Conception of the parish.

St. Patrick's Choir Work

Numerous words of commendation of the singing of the members of St. Patrick's choir yesterday at the high mass at 11 o'clock, were heard this

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—Armed with clubs, revolvers and shotguns, 75 angry farmers and farmhands of Waltham searched the woods in the lonely section near Bear Hill road in that city for two hours last night for a man who had leaped from the bushes and attacked Mrs. Anna Peterson of 185 Main street, Watertown, earlier in the evening.

When the searchers were about to give up their hunt, a man who later gave the name and address of Merrick Chapin of 205 River road, Waltham, was arrested on Weston street, about a mile from the scene of attack.

FR. DONOHUE DEAD

Rector of Church of Immaculate Conception at Worcester, Passed Away at Age of 61

WORCESTER, Nov. 24.—The Rev. James Donohue, rector of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, died yesterday of heart disease at the age of 64 years. Previous to coming to Worcester in 1908 he was for 17 years rector of St. Mary's, Westfield. He was born in Ireland, graduated from Holy Cross college in 1872, was ordained at St. Mary's, Maryland, in 1874, and was later located in North Adams, Chicopee, Fitchburg and Southfield.

BANK PRESIDENT DEAD

LYNN, Nov. 24.—John McNair, president of the Lynn National bank and for more than 25 years a prominent figure in banking circles along the North Shore, died suddenly at his home on Ocean street today. Death was due to apoplexy. Mr. McNair was born at Dysart, Scotland, in 1843.

STATE HIGHWAY NOW OPEN

The New State Road to Lawrence
Practically Completed—Great
Convenience to Autoists

The new state road between Lowell and Lawrence is practically finished, and is now open to traffic, although the large sign at the summit of First street to the effect that the road is closed has not yet been removed. Vehicles are permitted to go over the road which is in excellent condition with the exception of about 1000 feet opposite McManmon's grocery, and a short distance at the extreme end of the road near the Methuen line.

The cement bridge over the brook opposite McManmon's nursery is finished and it is a very pretty structure. The old bridge was removed and the place filled in, and it is believed the entire road will be completed in about a week.

The completion of this road will mean a lot for automobilists who have occasion to go to Lawrence, or any other point toward the sea, for this road is the last link to a fine macadamized road from the White mountains to the sea. It also means a building boom in Dracut on that portion extending along the Merrimack river, while the residents of the district will also highly benefit by this thoroughfare.

There is no happier man today than J. J. McManmon, who took an active part in securing for this new highway. He was the first man to bring the matter before the legislature and it was at the instigation of Mr. McManmon that he did it. However, experts also deserve credit for the building of the road, for they took the matter up when there was a hitch between the state and the county, and through their efforts an appropriation of $75,000 was voted and work was started.

Lowell and Dracut paid their proportionate share of the expense. Last year the sum of $35,000 was appropriated for the completion of the road, and the work was pushed along rapidly during 1913.

Experts who have been over the road say this stretch of road from Lowell to Methuen is the finest in the state. It was well constructed and on a good bottom, and the panoramic view it affords to travelers is one well worth seeing. It is believed that within a week the workmen will leave the place and the road will be entirely finished. Contractor Wagenbach of Lawrence has charge of the work.

About noon Lopez descended from the Lake mountains into Cedar valley, probably in search of food.

IMPORTANT TO RAILROADS RT. REV. BISHOP DA SILVA

Officials Ask Inter-State Commission for Authority to Increase Freight Rates

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Daniel W. Hill, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, Frederick A. Delano, president of the Wabash, and George Stewart Patterson, general solicitor of the Pennsylvania, appeared before the inter-state commerce commission today to argue for authority to increase rates on all classes of freight traffic approximately five per cent east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers.

Though the proposed increased rates were asked by the railroads in the territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, the hearing is of the utmost importance to all the railroads of the United States for should the commission grant the authority for the increase it might extend the authority to the other railroads of the country. The commission will inquire whether present rates yield adequate revenue to the common carriers and much testimony will be taken.

Pres. Delano's Views
Arguing on behalf of the Central Freight Association lines, which takes in lines from Buffalo and Pittsburgh west to St. Louis, Frederick A. Delano of Chicago, president of the Wabash road, presented the claims of the railroads for the right to put into effect their tariff, increasing by five per cent their rate on commodity and class freights. This increased tariff was filed with the commission on Oct. 15 last and was to have become effective Nov. 15 last, but was suspended when the commission agreed to reopen the so-called 1910 case.

"The evidence," said Mr. Delano, "will show that the lines in Central Freight association territory are confronted with the expenditure in the near future of millions of dollars in the separation of grades in various cities on which they will receive no adequate return and many of the lines have not the credit to raise this money. A five per cent increase in rates will not be adequate to meet the demand for the territory. The rates in that territory, both freight and passenger, are the lowest rates prevailing in the United States and the interests of the people of that rapidly growing and developing section of the country, to say nothing of the carriers, require in the near future a readjustment of the rates, both freight and passenger, to a basis which will enable that territory to have good roads and the people to have sufficient and adequate service and to progress measurably with the other sections of the country."

Statistics to show that operating expenses have increased faster than gross earnings and that net earnings have returned nothing on new capital invested in the last three years were presented by George M. Schriver, vice president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

According to an elaborate table 49 railroads, owning 53,670 miles of roadway with a total of 116,233 miles of track are concerned in the application for the rate increases. The figures, summarized, were submitted to show that gross earnings from 1910 to 1913 increased $186,000,000, while operating expenses and taxes increased $201,000,000. Tax payments alone increased from $12,900,000 in 1910 to $54,490,000 in 1913 and the net operating income actually decreased $14,000,000. In the three years the actual property investment increased by almost $660,000,000. It required, according to the railroad estimates, about $3.50 new property investment for each dollar of increased gross earnings and for each $1.86 of increased gross earnings increased expenses and taxes were $2.01 without allowance for new money spent to supply facilities to earn the increased gross revenue.

In 1910 the companies showed net operating income equal to 6.25 per cent on their property investment, but in 1913 that percentage had fallen off to 5.36 per cent.

The total capital obligations of the 49 companies the tables show are $8,389,000,000, of which funded debt is $3,522,000,000 and the rest capital stock. The companies last year in gross $1,424,000,000. Their net earnings after deducting expenses and taxes were $247,000,000. Their income after payment of interest and interest on funded debt was $205,000,000. Out of that income the companies declared dividends of 5.10 per cent on the capital outstanding amounting to $130,000,000, which is $19,000,000 less than the dividends paid out in 1909 and $7,000,000 less than the dividends in 1910.

RT. REV. BISHOP DA SILVA

Tendered Reception by the Portuguese Benefit Association—Recently Appointed Chaplain

An enthusiastic reception was yesterday tendered to Rt. Rev. Bishop Henri Da Silva, who is also pastor of St. Anthony's church, when he formally accepted the office of chaplain of Council 10 of the Royal Michaelense Autonomic Benefit association, to which position he was recently appointed by His Eminence, Cardinal O'Connell. The members of the local council of that society gathered in full number in Leather Workers' hall yesterday afternoon and received the bishop on his first official visit to the society. He was unanimously elected an honorary member.

Bishop Da Silva was escorted to the hall from his Episcopal residence in Central street by a delegation of the members of the society. Arriving at the hall he was greeted with a rousing cheer from the members assembled there. The president of the council, Joseph F. Branco, delivered an impressive address of welcome after which other addresses were delivered by Manuel Santos, Manuel Pimentel and Mr. Barcello. Bishop Da Silva responded in a most eloquent manner, speaking his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him and congratulating the members on the good work of the society.

The local branch is one of the many which are scattered throughout the country and it is a very strong one both in the number and interest of the members. It was organized on October 17, 1903, and since that time has grown and prospered. The name of the local council 10, is Marques Da Praia E Montforte.

Following the formal reception yesterday afternoon, a general social time was enjoyed, refreshments served and an entertainment given. The officers of the society are as follows: President, Joseph F. Branco; vice president, Manuel M. Santos; secretary, Frank Tavares; treasurer, Manuel Pimentel.

Many patterns now in stock. The above price is for perfect goods.

We have also a very large assortment of Printed Linoleum at all prices, down to 49c a yard.

GRAY AND WHITE SQUIRREL IN TIE AND MUFF

Gray fur is always ideally becoming to the fair-skinned, blue-eyed woman, but everyone cannot afford chinchilla, or the equally beautiful and costly Australian opossum, and ordinary gray squirrel is a very fair substitute when muff and neckpiece are of modish shape. Illustrated is a very good looking set of gray and white squirrel, the big, flat muff being matched by a smart little tie.

WOMAN'S DANGER PERIOD

is said to be from 45 to 50. What should be a most natural change in a woman's life, is, on account of modern methods of living, fraught with most annoying and painful symptoms. Women when passing through this critical period should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it has proved wonderfully successful in carrying women safely through the change of life.

SERGT. CARNEY MOVES

SERGEANT CARNEY

Will Establish Recruiting Station at Lawrence — Will Come to Lowell Twice a Week

The United States army recruiting station which has been in this city for the past seven years or more, was closed today, when Sergeant Carney, who has been in charge, went to Lawrence to open a central station in that city. Orders were received at the local station in a communication dated Washington, D. C., November 7, directing that the Lowell recruiting station close on November 24, today, and the recruiting party to proceed to Lawrence to open a central auxiliary recruiting station in that city at No. 563 Essex street. So far as could be determined from Recruiting Sergeant Carney, it is the intention of the war department that the recruiting district can be better canvassed and advertised from Lawrence than from this city. The district includes Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Newburyport and the adjacent towns in Massachusetts, and in New Hampshire, Nashua, Manchester and Concord, together with the towns neighboring these cities. Consequently, the authorities in charge are apparently of the opinion that Lawrence is a better center for this district than is Lowell. The local station had been in operation in this city for more than seven years, having been established by orders from the war department on September 5, 1906. The station had experienced successful results from its operation during that time, according to the reports. Sergeant Carney had been in charge for a period of more than three years, and has a wide circle of friends in this city who will be disappointed at learning of his change of location. Corporal Sweet, who has been his assistant, has returned to the Main station in Boston, as did Corporal Dorner who had been his assistant previously to Corporal Sweet. In Lawrence Sergeant Carney will have two assistants.

GIFT OF WORKING GIRLS

Five Hundred Have Part in Making Beautiful Linen Skirt for Miss Jessie Wilson

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—As part of her trousseau Miss Jessie Wilson, the president's daughter, will have a linen undershirt presented to her by 500 working girls in this city. Three of them, Miss Margaret Ricker, Miss Rebecca Kronfeld and Mrs. C. G. Hill, will start for Washington this afternoon on the Pennsylvania road and will deliver the skirt to Miss Wilson at the White House this evening. The three are employed by a firm who are manufacturers of muslin underwear. They wanted to show some appreciation of Miss Wilson's interest in social work, and two weeks ago decided to present a skirt to her. They wrote to Miss Wilson and the president's daughter replied that she would be delighted to receive the gift and its donors at the White House. The factory workers held an election to choose a trio to make the presentation. Every one of the 500 girls had a hand in the making of the skirt, some taking only one stitch in it. It is of white linen, embroidered with garlands of flowers and the initials "J. W. S." It has been packed most carefully in a box covered with white satin and decorated with ribbons of the valley and white ribbon. In the box is a book with the signatures of all the girls.

PLAYER WHO MADE HARVARD FAMOUS ATTRIBUTES GREAT WORK TO PRAYER BEFORE GAME

The Boston Herald says: Charles Brickley attributes his success in football not to himself nor his team mates but rather to prayer. Every Saturday during the football season Harvard's great punter has made it a point to visit church before and after each game, and one short hour after Brickley had finished his part of the Harvard-Yale game in the stadium, Saturday afternoon, he could have been found engaged in prayer at the St. Paul's Catholic church in Cambridge.

Brickley 22 Today

Charles Edward Brickley, he of the deft toe, Harvard fullback extraordinary and drop kicker plenipotentiary, whose entrance in Harvard football has been anomalous with crimson success, will celebrate his 22d birthday today. There will be no set demonstration at the Brickley homestead in Everett, but Charles will hurry there after his study hours, and the family will gather around the supper table as at a more pretentious banquet. Message after message came over the wires since the result of Brickley's great drop-kicking achievement was heralded around the world, each one offering congratulations. One very welcome wire came from Eddie Collins, second baseman of the champion Athletics. Brickley was the first one to send Collins a like message when his Philadelphia team swung into the world's baseball championship last October.

FIND TEN DRINKING

Sundry Liquor Holders at Milford, N. H. Arrested and Let Recognized Men Depart

MILFORD, N. H., Nov. 24.—Late Saturday night Chief Irving Goodwin with a party of officers made a spectacular raid in Cottage street and arrested Chas. Sarlo for illegal liquor selling. The police had watched the place for more than two hours before the raid and had taken the names of more than a dozen men who were seen to enter. There were found 19 men in the kitchen drinking beer. The bottles were dropped and there was a rush for the nearest window and door. The police did not try to prevent the escape of the men, since they can be found at any time. Sarlo was released on $200 bail and will appear Wednesday in the district court.

ENGINEER WAS SCALDED HEAD OF MAZDAZNANS

Boiler Tubes Blow Out, But Wm A. Carr, in Agony Saves Train-load of Passengers

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—By great bravery and presence of mind William A. Carr, sixty years old, an engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad, saved the Philadelphia-New York express yesterday morning when the boiler tubes blew out, filling the cab with steam and scalding him so severely that physicians say he will die.

The train, scheduled as No. 140, left the Broad street station, Philadelphia, at 10:30 a. m. and was due at the station in this city at 12:51 o'clock. The giant locomotive, built for high speed, hauled a baggage car, a smoker, three day coaches and two Pullmans—all seven of steel. Every seat was taken by passengers bound for New York and Trenton, the only stops on the fast run.

As the train pulled out of Trenton the engineer noticed that his locomotive was not making steam as readily as it should, and that he was falling a bit behind schedule, so he signalled the fireman to feed the coal into the firebox a bit faster. Then he opened the throttle another notch and got down to the work of making up time.

Was Going Sixty Miles an Hour
The express passed Millstone Junction at sixty miles an hour, and had reached a point half way between the station at Metuchen when there came a terrific roar, and the engineer's side of the cab was filled with steam. Carr was half blinded and his skin seemed to be stabbed with a million needles.

The veteran driver knew another train was ahead of him and that he must act before he became unconscious. With one hand he closed the throttle and with the other he shot the airbrake control full over, setting the brake shoes against the wheels until turning was impossible and they slid squealing along the rails.

As the brakes worked, passengers pitched forward in their seats, and several falling along aisles were thrown from their feet. The conductor and trainmen started for the doors and dropped to the ground as the train stopped.

Trainmen and passengers ran forward and found the fireman lifting the limp form of the engineer. Two physicians were on the train, and they quickly applied such first aid as they could.

Women Aided in Work
The doctors wanted bandages and women passengers volunteered to provide them.

They disappeared within the station and soon came forth with cotton and linen in plenty. They asked if they could do more and were told they could stand by and aid the doctors. This they did willingly.

Meantime a trainman had been sent to a telephone to call up the nearest hospital. Carr entered this to be St. Peter's hospital at Metuchen and he asked that an ambulance be hurried. That was done.

The ambulance was backed down to the track and gentle hands lifted the old engineer and placed him within. He was then hurried to the hospital, but little could be done for him, save to ease his suffering.

The accident held the train for an hour. At the end of that time the passengers were transferred to another train and sent on to New York.

Carr lives in Philadelphia and is married.

"Inner Studies", Written by High Priest Hanish to be Read in Chicago Court

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—After describing "Inner Studies" as neither a religious book nor a treatise on sex hygiene but the "product of a licentious and depraved mind," Walter Krumboltz, assistant United States district attorney, declared to the grand jury in Judge Mack's court today that he would read the book in court.

"Inner Studies" was written by Ottoman Zar Adusht Hanish, a head of the Mazdaznan cult, with headquarters in Lowell, Mass. The society is said to have a membership of 14,500 members. The author is on trial charged with violating the interstate commerce law in having sent the books by express from Chicago to Miss Julia B. Gardner of Brookfield, Mo.

THE BEST MAN ON HAND

Dr. Grenfell Arrives at Washington for White House Wedding Tomorrow—Other Guests

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, the Labrador coast mission worker and close friend of Mr. Sayre, who is to be best man at the White House wedding tomorrow, arrived here today. Mrs. Sayre, mother of the groom-to-be, was expected late in the afternoon to be a guest at the White House. Numbers of guests from Princeton also began arriving. Many members of the Princeton faculty and veteran residents of the town who have been long and close friends of the president and Mrs. Wilson and their daughters have received the coveted invitations.

Although no guest list has been permitted to become public at the White House, it is known that the invitations have been limited almost entirely to personal friends of Mr. Sayre, Miss Wilson and the two families. No invitations have been issued to senators or representatives as such, though a few have been invited outside of the cabinet, the diplomatic corps and some high officials of the army and navy. Invitations to official Washington have been very scarce. The commissioners of the District of Columbia, who are the heads of the local government, have not received invitations.

As the wedding gifts have arrived they have been placed in one of the largest rooms in the second floor of the White House, where the members of the Wilson family have personally supervised the work of unpacking and have made lists for future acknowledgments. Those guests who are members of the house party and some of the others who arrived today were treated to a view of the gifts, though it is understood the presents will not be on view tomorrow. The most valuable gift in the entire lot is the diamond pendant given by members of the house of representatives, and White House officials say the bride-to-be has been greatly displeased by exaggerated statements of the value of many of the presents.

One of the most striking gifts received is a pure white vicuña skin rug from the Peruvian minister and Madame Pezet. Admiral Dewey and Mrs. Dewey have given a wonderful silver vase. Mr. Sayre's family has sent a complete set of small silver and a silver tea service. These, however, are only among hundreds of gifts which have been arriving almost hourly for the past week.

Secretary Bryan and Mrs. Bryan entertained Dr. Grenfell today at luncheon. A dinner was planned for this evening by the president and Mrs. Wilson for the wedding party and relatives and later the officers of the president's yacht Mayflower were planning to give a dinner and dance aboard the ship for the immediate members of the bridal party.

The senate's gift was sent to the White House this afternoon. It had been viewed by members in the vice president's chamber. The elaborate silver service consisted of 15 pieces. The large service tray being engraved, "Jessie Woodrow Wilson, from the senate of the United States, Washington, D. C., Nov. 25th, 1913."

SLAIN IN HALL

Man Mysteriously Shot Down in the House Where He Lived

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—As he stepped into the hallway of his home at No. 2431 Belmont avenue at 9 o'clock last night, leading his three-year-old daughter, Marianna, Frank Sarro, 46, for many years connected with the street cleaning department, was waylaid by two men, one of whom drew a revolver and shot him in the body, killing him instantly.

Luigi Chiacria of No. 2437 Belmont avenue, heard the shots and saw the two men as they dashed out of the hallway, but in the darkness he could see them imperfectly and was unable to give the police a description of value. Chiacria entered the hallway and found the little girl standing dazed at the side of her dead father.

Detectives Ropetto and Capibianco tried in vain to get from the child a description of the two men. The hallway was only dimly lighted and the child had little opportunity to see the men. All the baby girl could say was: "Big light, like fireworks, papa fall."

Sarro lived at the Belmont avenue address with his wife and seven children. Mrs. Sarro could tell the police of no possible motive for the murder. She said her husband had no enemies as far as she knew, and that no Black Hand demands for money had ever been made on him.

HAVERHILL, Nov. 24.—The police today are searching for an unknown man who tried to kidnap Annie Buccini, the 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Buccini, from her home on River street, early this morning. The girl was awakened by the intruder, who was trying to take her out of bed.

The girl's cries awakened her sisters, who were asleep in the same room. The kidnapper jumped out of a window in the darkness. Mr. Buccini reported the attempted kidnapping to Patrolman Madden. A search was made in the Italian colony, but no trace of the man was found.

OFFICERS' SQUEAKING SHOES

Trouble the Women of Malden, Who Accordingly Protest—Rubber Soles Suggested

MALDEN, Nov. 24.—Creaking of policemen's shoes as they traveled over their beats in the dead of the night is so disturbing to Malden people that a number of women have waited upon Capt. Timothy Foley and urged that the men be equipped with rubber soles. Recently the Malden women started a crusade against night noises. Capt. Foley has agreed to consider the matter of noiseless policemen.

FIRE IN CHURCH

Brooklyn Edifice Damaged—Priests Rescue Host and Monstrance

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Fire caused a damage estimated at $10,000 at the church of St. Mary Star of the Sea in Brooklyn. Rev. Frs. O'Malley, Curran, Ford and Delaney, after reassuring the aged Mrs. O'Connell, the rector, rescued the host and the sacred vessels from the smoke stained altar and firemen under Battalion Chief Reilly put out the flames which at one time threatened the whole plant.

The church building is in Hamilton avenue between Duane and Nelson streets. It backs up to a three story brick building known as the vestry. In the basement the fire started and the smoke was communicated to the church. The church building is one of the oldest in Brooklyn, but the marble altar is new and the priests detected a strenuous effort to protect it from the flames. It was not seriously damaged save for smoke.

The teaching sisters watched the fire from the windows of their house on the opposite side of Duane street. A number of Italians living in Dennett street nearby were hustled out of their tenements, but none was injured.

HEBREW MASS MEETING

HELD IN EAST BOSTON URGED ORGANIZATION OF YOUNG MEN'S HEBREW ASSOCIATIONS

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—The necessity of a Young Men's Hebrew association in every community where the number of Jewish residents makes it feasible and the successes of the associations already established, was the keyword of every address at the mass meeting held by the East Boston Young Men's Hebrew association at the Ohel Jacob Synagogue, Paris street, yesterday.

The organization has done much to interest the whole community. The meeting was opened by L. Shapiro and Abraham Eskin, who was chairman.

Among the speakers were Abraham Alpert, Judge A. K. Cohen, Rabbi J. Jurman, Samuel Pinsanski, president of the local association; Max Ulin, 1st vice-president of the Associated Y. M. H. A.'s of New England and active worker in the East Boston association; Leo J. Lyons and Bernard Vernon. The musical program was furnished by the East Boston Y. M. H. A. orchestra.

During the address references were made to the National organization, organized Nov. 1, and which has already begun to aid the Y. M. H. A.'s of the United States in securing the proper programs and giving aid in carrying on the work. The National organization has as members nearly all the leading Jewish jurists, bankers, business and professional men, and has already a fund of nearly a quarter of a million to carry out the program accepted at the convention.

The New England organization also held its convention a few weeks ago, and the present membership is upward of 10,000 young men, in 30 associations, and over 3000 young women connected with the Y. W. H. A.

The East Boston association is a live wire among the associations and is active not only in its own community but aids weaker associations in other parts of New England.

No absolute promise was made to give them new employment, however.

HOT LETTERS IN MAILBOX

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—"Mrs. Pankhurst or some of those English suffragettes must have been around here," said a woman to Policeman Martin Kuran, who was standing at Madison avenue and 73rd street, last night.

The policeman pulled up the letter slot. Out came a gust of flame. The policeman got a bottle of salt water from a drug store and put out the fire. A mail carrier found 22 letters, all of them burned so that the addresses were indecipherable. Who started the fire is not known.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

THE DUTY OF ALL

At the 14th anniversary of the New York chamber of commerce held at the Waldorf-Astoria a few evenings ago, one of the leading Republicans in the country in the person of Joseph H. Choate paid to President Wilson, one of the warmest tributes he has received since his inauguration and supplemented it by calling upon the entire country to support him in what Mr. Choate termed "the most stirring thing that agitates the hearts of the American people today—the Mexican situation." Apart from his distinguished position in national politics, Mr. Choate is better qualified than most to speak on international matters, for he has served in the past as ambassador to the court of St. James.

In a slightly sarcastic vein Mr. Choate in opening punctured the presumptions of many who assume an attitude of wisdom in dealing with the policy of the administration, for he declared: "There is only one man who knows that policy and he very wisely keeps his own counsel." He then went on to show the gravity of the situation and made the following splendid appeal to the patriotism of all Americans irrespective of political or other differences:

"It is a very trying situation; it is a very dangerous situation, but one thing I know and for one thing I appeal to the heart and the head of every gentleman present in this chamber to-night; that in this trying situation there is but one duty for all of us, and that is to stand by the president of the United States."

He did not make this appeal from merely sentimental considerations as was evidenced by what followed, for he said that he had confidence in the wisdom of the peaceful policy of the administration, based on the assurance that the chief executive and his supporters are in possession of facts concerning the situation of which people generally are ignorant. "You may call it diplomatic business," he said, "but it is fair to assume that the president is in possession of information vastly superior to that which even all of the members of the chamber of commerce possess. He knows what he is about. He knows what he is aiming at."

Of the possibility of armed intervention he declared, referring again to the president:

"One thing we are sure of; that he is for peace, that he is for preserving peace at all hazards, and that by no act of his shall this nation be plunged into a destructive and a dreadful war. He is entitled to that from us without regard to party and without regard to creeds. We must stand by our president through thick and through thin, and we shall come out right in the end."

Men like Mr. Choate, who under previous administrations wielded great power in political affairs can do a great service for the people at the present time, and his fine sentiments, finely expressed, show that he is not blind to the possibilities. This policy of President Wilson may not suit everybody, but it has kept us as yet out of dangerous entanglements and inhuman wars, and it has done this without sacrificing any national dignity or departing from the political traditions of the nation. Mr. Choate's appeal should be read and heard for it outlines briefly what should be considered a duty by every patriotic citizen—support of the administration in the present difficult situation.

THE SERVANT GIRL QUESTION

Concerning the much discussed "servant girl" question there are many questions which would bring widely differing answers from employer and employed. Here's one of them: Why do most working girls refuse to go into domestic service? Everybody knows that they do refuse, otherwise there would be no servant girl question. At the time of the Lawrence strike when many bright young girls of foreign extraction were thrown out of employment without knowing how long they would be idle or what they would have to endure, they could not be prevailed upon to go to work in private homes, despite the fact that many householders would be very glad to give them employment. And yet they were girls who worked in the mills from dawn till dark for a smaller wage than they would get doing housework, and were compelled to live in homes devoid of all the advantages which the average household enjoys.

The main objections of girls to housework seem to be that it restricts their personal independence and, through some unexplainable cause, puts them in a lower social scale than most working girls. They cannot tell definitely when they are to be at liberty and they cannot plan for enjoyment ahead, for on the evening they had hoped to go to the theatre with a friend, Madam has a little dinner party and they must stay at home. The mill girl knows that her work is through at 5:30 p. m. and from that on she is her own mistress; when there are house parties more or less informal the housegirl is washing dishes at 2 p. m. and often later.

As for the lowering of caste is concerned, it is ridiculously true that a store girl getting $5.00 per week for work that requires little skill will turn up her nose at a well dressed cook that puts $5.00 per week in the bank. It is difficult to explain why this feeling exists but it would be foolish to deny that it does exist. It is a very small matter but it is an example of a condition that keeps girls from the womanly and dignified duties of housework.

Again, the very name "servant" is obnoxious to most girls who might be considering taking up housework, and there is some justice in their view. All who work in any capacity are "servants"; even the president refers to himself as the servant of the people. The bestowing of the unwelcome title, therefore, on any class exclusively tends to remind them that they are designated as belonging to a lower social work, and as the difficulty can be surmounted easily, the calling of those who do housework "servant girls" should be discontinued. There are many other little matters slight in themselves and easily adjusted which would go a great way towards solving the troublesome "servant girl" question.

A CLAIRVOYANT RING

In Judge Walker's court, Chicago, two men have just been found guilty of wholesale swindling as leaders of what has been termed a "clairvoyant ring" operating through the west. In the aggregate the profits of the ring were stated as one million dollars, and in individual cases over $15,000 had been gathered in from some deluded follower of the occult. One of the favorite games of the leaders and their aids was to reveal pretended opportunities in bogus investments and then offer to make the transactions. Though this case was tried in Chicago, it reminds us of similar occurrences far nearer home. The exploitation of the unknown has been a lure to many who have been made wiser and praver by the clever manipulations of the clairvoyant.

In matters of this kind the deception is so evident that it is difficult to understand how any reasonable person can be misled. People have gone and will again go to mediums of every variety for advice concerning financial and other matters, forgetful of the fact that if the clairvoyant knew where a million or so could be made he—or she—would not bother about unveiling the future to the general public at fifty cents per head. But there is a fascination for some people in getting their "fortune" told that they cannot resist. It may be based on vanity or some psychological phenomenon, but certain it is that since the days of the witch of Endor, and before, revealing what is to come has been found a profitable occupation by many besides the leaders of the "clairvoyant ring" who have just been found guilty of fraud in Chicago.

In many leading cities of the country the telling of fortunes has been forbidden by law, for aside from the fraud often attached to the practice it was used as a cloak for other unlawful ways of making money. Not all the activities of sincere investigators of psychical mysteries are based on a desire to defraud the public, but there is enough of trickery revealed by court revelations to make silly people pause before spending money for the purpose of wrestling secrets from the mysterious unknown.

LOAFERS

New York is at present waging a vigorous campaign against the loafers who hang around the waiting rooms of department stores and render themselves very objectionable to patrons, particularly to women and girls. Eleven were arrested in one of these places at one time. It is significant that though aimless loafing round such places is of itself punishable, the culprits had added to their general uselessness the annoyance of the public. What New York has done in this instance might be done advantageously by all cities. Waiting rooms of railroads, hotels and other public places have a special attraction for the fraternity of work hatters, and as idleness begets viciousness, they often become real menaces to the public in the course of time as well as a corroding influence on any youth unfortunate enough to get into their blustering circle. Authorities should not wait for the more evil inclinations of loafers to develop but should aim at curbing them by preventing their congregating in public places.

Seen and Heard

The man who dumped a basketful of bank notes on his fire for kindling set an extravagant pace for wealthy spenders. He was fairly outdone, however, by the financier of whom it is told that he was so rich that he never used a motor-car more than once, had a gold-topper, but wore 17 funny waistcoats at a time, and his house was a perfect revelation.

It was now in the act of showing its wonders to a friend. "This mirror," he murmured, "is worth a hundred thousand pounds." "Wonderful!" gasped the friend. "But what a pity it's scratched!" "Yes it is rather," replied the multi-millionaire, carelessly, turning to his wife. "Martha, perhaps you'd better not let the children have any more diamonds to play with."

It was in New York state that Mr. Miller came upon a community where the Indians had been for years, and meeting an old fellow on the highway, asked his business. "He preacher," granted the Indian. "Well, well," commented Mr. Miller, "what do they pay you?" "Ten dollars," granted the Indian. "Ten dollars a month?" asked Mr. Miller. "No, ten dollars a year! Why, that's a poor salary, isn't it?" gasped Mr. Miller. "He poor preacher," granted the Indian.—Catholic Citizen.

Inscriptions in complimentary copies of learned works do not always serve the graceful purpose to which one was dedicated by the celebrated Professor Wilson of Edinburgh. When the editor for the hand of Professor Wilson's daughter had gained the young woman's approbation, she of course referred him to her father. Having stated his case, the younger gentleman was asked to lead the young lady to come to her father. Her obedience was prompt.

Prof. Wilson had before him for review a ponderous volume, on the flyleaf of which was duly inscribed, "with the author's compliments."

He tore the fly-leaf out, pinned it to his daughter's dress, solemnly led her to the anxious lover—and went back to his work.—Youth's Companion.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

STRIKES AND ADVERTISING
Portland Express: Portland is getting a great deal of undesirable advertising out of the strikes of the longshoremen. Canadian, Boston and New York papers lose no opportunity for showing under big headlines the story of the strike. They get a share of the steamship business that has always come to this port.

COAL FREIGHT RATES
Providence Tribune: The undertaking by the Interstate Commerce Commission of an inquiry into the rates and practices of the hard-coal-carrying railroads ought to be as welcome to the roads as to the consumers of coal; for it cannot be forgotten that since the railroads began their agitation for increased freight rates they have been at great pains to lay before the public every item of expenditure, and if pub-

SPEECHES BY PHONE
Brooklyn Enterprise: President Wilson couldn't attend the dinner of the Rochester, N. Y. chamber of commerce, so the chamber has asked if he will deliver a speech by telephone. It is said he may do it, and if so each of the 500 members of the chamber will be equipped with a telephone and hear it all. This novelty is likely to be taken up by other clubs, and the president may find it necessary to spend many evenings in his study, talking speeches over the phone. However, it saves him from taking long rides the country over.

HER OPPORTUNITY
Manchester Mirror: The Mexican women are not willing to give the ballot before using the bullet. They are playing no unimportant part in the struggle on both the federal and rebel sides. They have proved their ability both with knives and bullets and as foragers they are experts. Here is an opportunity for Mrs. Bankhurst to distinguish herself. If she would put the same energy into her household duties as she puts into her political ones, she might gain great glory and win the Mexican women to the cause of equal suffrage.

MANHATTAN CLUB MET

BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS AND AN ENJOYABLE CONCERT GIVEN BY HONEY BOY MINSTRELS

At the regular meeting of the Manhattan social club, held yesterday afternoon, considerable business was transacted and an excellent concert program was carried out. Charles Emerson presided and in opening he spoke of plans for the coming season, and urged all members to cooperate with the officers in advancing the work of the organization. He said that the annual social of the club will be held in January and announced an entertainment will precede the dancing. Other members spoke on the welfare of the club and nine new members were initiated. After the business session, the Honey Boy Minstrels gave a pleasing program. The concert was given under the direction of William Way, with Miss Anna Murphy as accompanist. Those who contributed were: Albert Olson, Edward Hanley, Josh. Chappelle, Dick Donoghue, Chas. Sandler, Andrew Doyle, James Skerch, William O'Donnell, William Carr, Linwood Knapp and John Willoughby. Each and every member was heard to advantage and at the close of the program all of it one of the most enjoyable entertainments ever given in the beautiful rooms of the organization.

HOW YOU MAY THROW AWAY YOUR GLASSES

The statement is made that thousands wear eyeglasses who do not need them. If you are one of these unfortunate, then these glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear "wind-downs" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Opton; fill a two-ounce bottle with water and drop in one Opton tablet. With this harmless liquid solution bathe the eyes two to four times daily and you are likely to be astonished at the results right from the start. Many who have been told that they have astigmatism, eye-strain, catarract, sore eyes, weak eyes, conjunctivitis and other eye disorders, report wonderful benefits from the use of this free prescription. Get this prescription filled and use it; you may so strengthen your eyes that glasses will not be necessary. Thousands who are blind or nearly so, or who wear glasses, would never have required them if they had cared for their eyes in time. Save your eyes before it is too late. Do not become one of these victims of neglect. Eyeglasses are only the crutches and every few years they must be changed, or fit the ever-increasing weakened condition, so better see if you can, like many others, get clear, healthy, strong, magnetic eyes through the prescription here given.

TALKED ON SOCIALISM

Rev. Skinner Says Government is Superior in German Cities

Rev. Pinkham on Expressed Appreciation—Other Services

At a well attended meeting in "The Forum" series at Grace Universalist church, last night, Rev. C. R. Skinner said that socialism had brought about a system of self government in Germany so satisfactory that immigration from that country had long since ceased. He said that Germany is far ahead of America in the matter of city government and he gave municipal ownership as one of the assets of the German scheme of government.

"If there is any place where true democracy should prevail," said Mr. Skinner, "it is in the city, and especially in the American city. But, instead, we find our city life drifting away from that condition, and for a standard we are forced to go to Germany, where a clear social vision and a sense of responsibility give to the average citizen marked superiority over our cities. The German city is superior in its administration because it makes no distinction between rich and poor in the matter of equal rights. Its idea is to give the worker as much pleasure and as much health as his richer brother, so far as governmental methods can bring this about. Intelligent attention to all channels by which the municipality may become a force of good for the people as a whole has wrought wonders for German cities."

"In America, the idea of city administrations has been to elect the most popular man, without regard to his fitness for the responsibilities that the man assumes. The German plan is to prepare men for certain duties in Germany's city government. Colleges have been established to train seriously for the great task of governing, and when a man is elected to office, the people are confident that they will receive at his hands efficient management."

First Baptist Church
At the First Baptist church, Sunday morning, Rev. H. S. Pinkham preached on "Expressing an Appreciation."

To say the kind thing first, he said, was one of the best ways to do good with your correction and admonition. Many people are liberal in many respects, but stingy with their appreciation. The kind word helps greatly in personal work. It helps make your own life more cheerful and helpful to others. But let us never forget that all we have and are comes from God. Let us always be ready to thank to him, and not be guilty of the sin of ingratitude. "In everything give thanks!"

There was a large attendance in the evening when Mr. Pinkham preached on "The Man Who Kills His Opportunity." At the close of the service four persons were baptized.

Elliot Congregational Church
The annual harvest concert by the Sunday school of the Elliot Congregational church was held last evening.

All of the Sunday school classes brought gifts. Accompanying the offerings were exercises, in which the full strength of the Sunday school was enlisted. The classes which participated were those of Miss Clara Horne, Melvin Smith, Mrs. Sabrey Bancroft, Miss Katherine Ward, Deacon Charles Fleming, Deacon James Sykes, Deacon William J. Blake, Mrs. Hardy, Miss May Fletcher, Miss Maude Smith and Miss Bernice Friable.

A brief address was given by the pastor, Rev. Herbert A. Barker, and the choir sang "Thou Crownest the Year With Thy Goodness" (Maker); and "Harvest Hymn" (Hanscom).

George S. Hull, superintendent of the Sunday school, had general charge of the services.

First Universalist Church
A special Thanksgiving service was held at the First Universalist church last evening. There was a fine musical program and the pastor, Rev. Caleb E. Fisher, preached on "Things to Be Thankful For."

He said that during this season of Thanksgiving we should try and look upon that side of life which has provided us with the happiness and pleasure which make our lives worth the living. "Let us be generous," he said, "in our endeavor to see things as God would have us see them, and impart the spirit of brotherhood to others so that the world in general may be the better for it. Forget the animosity of the past and look to the future with all of the happiness and joy that it contains and seek it out. It is there if we will only strive to locate it. There is sunshine for us all if we ask and look for it. Social redemption may be brought forward to a marked degree by developing that brotherly love and generous spirit that is needed to make it. Let us work more together, then, that the bright and pleasant things of life may be ours as they should be. Let us not forget God in our thanksgiving, for it is from him that all joys come."

Sporting Editor Describes Feature Plays in the Harvard-Yale Football Contest

(By Sporting Editor of The Sun)

Although many Lowell people attended the Harvard-Yale football game at the Stadium Saturday afternoon the majority of local football fans were not fortunate enough to procure seats and were obliged to depend upon the press for the account of the contest. With this thought in mind the Sun issued an extra with a full account of the game to its minutest details on the first page and with the score—15 to 4 in Harvard's favor conspicuously displayed. The football extra was on the street less than ten minutes after the referee's whistle had blown for the last time, and was eagerly bought and read by the fans.

The game was all that it was expected to be. Charley Brickley came through with his wonderful kicking too in even better style than anyone except Coach Haughton expected of him. After the game in the locker rooms the Harvard head coach expressed himself as not at all surprised by the five field goals scored by Brickley. "He is a natural kicker," said Coach Haughton, "and would have kicked one of the two he missed if the pass had been perfect."

Yale was outclassed but would not admit the fact until Brickley's fourth boot went soaring between the uprights. Even after the last score had been made Wilson sought vainly to find an opening in order to put over a touchdown but the Harvard defense was airtight and Yale was forced to kick.

Guernsey, the Yale fullback, did all that could be reasonably expected of him. His field goal was a beauty but it was the only kick that he was not hurried on. Even when punting the Yale kicks had to be hurried in order to avoid being blocked by the Crimson forwards. The much talked of Yale rush line fought hard but were unable to stem the fierce rushes of their opponents on all kick formations.

The logical score was really one lone field goal for Yale. The score at the end of the first half would have been 3 to 3 if Frank O'Brien, the Harvard end, had not thought he was completing a touch back when he grabbed the ball and carried it behind his own goal line. A Yale punt hit the Harvard uprights and bounded into the field of play and O'Brien carried the ball across his own goal line and touched it down. The referee called it a touch-back but after a few minutes spent in argument the play went as a safety for Yale with two points in the Blue column.

Everything taken into consideration it was a far more spectacular contest than that of last year. Wilson and Mahan ran back punts in masterly style and the crowd was breathless with suspense every time that either man caught a punt. Brickley's long run and the various skin tackle dives that netted Harvard so many yards were all of a thrilling nature and served to stir the blood of the most sluggish spectator. It was a game which those who spent many times the price of admission by buying tickets from speculators did not regret attending.

Harvard broke two records Saturday. They defeated Yale for the first time in the Stadium and they won two games in succession from their blue-jerseyed rivals for the first time since the two institutions first played an annual gridiron match. It was a great day for Harvard men.

LOWELL Y. M. C. A. DEFEATS NASHUA AT BASKET BALL—GRANT AND COTE WERE THE STARS

The Lowell Y. M. C. A. basketball team, the first team and the Employed Boys five, gave their Nashua opponents a bad beating Saturday night on the local floor. The teams from up river were not in a class with the local aggregations.

The game between the first teams was not close but was interesting, nevertheless, on account of the fast team work displayed by the Lowell team. Jimmy Grant and Herco Cote were the stars of the contest, each player getting eight baskets from the floor. Billy Grant made his initial appearance of the season and relieved Wood during the latter part of the game. The final score of the contest was 21 to 16.

Between the halves of the big game the Employed Boys of each association fought it out. Lowell won this game by the score of 25 to 14. Greenwood was the star of this contest with no less than ten baskets from the floor to his credit. Hamblett of the visitors got five baskets. The lineup and summary:

Athletes and Athletics

Mayor O'Donnell booted the pigskin before the start of the Indians-Armory A. A. game on the fair grounds. The Indian played good football and succeeded in scoring a touchdown on their Lawrence opponents and this proved to be the only score of the game. A large crowd turned out for the game.

Hardwick's work Saturday was magnificent. The manner in which he boxed his tackle was missed by those in the stands but a sideline view showed up the wonderful manner in which this player ran his opponent out of the path of the runner. Neither Brickley nor Mahan would have been able to pull off as long run if Hardwick had not provided perfect interference.

The Harvard team lived up to all the good things Coach Haughton said about it before the game. Every man was on his job, the only misplay coming when Frank O'Brien pulled his bone head performance. Dana, who took O'Brien's place at the end when the latter again hurt his knee, played gilt edge football.

There were a great many Lowell people at the Harvard-Yale game and the majority of them were rooting for the Crimson. Dan Donahue was one of the Lowell contingent who went wild every time that Charley Brickley's boot added three more points to the Harvard score.

The Harvard-Yale game in Boston, at least, attracted as much attention from the public at large as did the work series. Mounted police were necessary to clear the streets in front of every newspaper office and thousands of people who could not procure seats stood for several hours in front of the various megaphones listening to the returns of the game.

Lowell high will line up against Lawrence next Thursday in the down river city for their last game of the season. The Lawrence team is not very strong this year but is building up a scoring machine for this game. The two teams have always been rivals and a bitterly fought game is sure to be the result.

The All-America team picked by the Boston Post this morning is as follows: Center, Ketchum of Yale, Guards, Pennek of Harvard and Brown of the navy; tackles, Ballin of Princeton and Talbot of Yale; ends, Hogsett of Dartmouth and Hardwick of Harvard.

quarter, Miller of Penn. state; fullback, Brickley of Harvard; halfbacks, Whitney of Dartmouth and Mahan of Harvard.

While Miller of Penn. state is a great quarter without dispute Ghee of Dartmouth has played a more spectacular game all season. His work has outshone that of Miller in every contest. Baker of Princeton is also a great back and is not a whit under Mahan in offensive and defensive ability while his drop kicking ability stands out formidably.

The American league's statistician has just issued the official figures for the 1913 season. The Athletics stand at the top of the batter with an average of .255. Boston is in second place with .259. In individual batting Cobb leads with .350, with Hendrickson, Boston; Jackson, Cleveland; Speaker, Boston; Collins, Athletics; Baker, Athletics and Lajoie following in this order.

The Moran-Jack Johnson bout which is scheduled for the middle of January will give us a line on just what Johnson can do now. Moran is a tough nut for any heavy and can give punishment as well as take it. The former champion will have to extend himself beyond a doubt after his long layoff if he is to put over a K. O.

The work of Captain Ketchum of Yale was a revelation to the spectators. The big Yale line was down the field on punts like a greyhound and when he hit a runner that runner got up wearily. Ketchum dove into Mahan once with such fierceness that his team was penalized for unnecessary roughness. There was nothing flirty about the play, however, but simply a demonstration of hard football.

Larry Whitney, the Dartmouth strong man and picked by many for this year's All-America aggregation, has been chosen leader of the Green eleven for next season. Whitney should make a great general for the Hanover college.

Charley Brickley, with, beyond a doubt, he elected captain of the Harvard team for next season. This is the premier goal-kicker's third year at the Cambridge institution where he has shone for two seasons on the varsity track as well as on the gridiron.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE OPERA HOUSE

Exceedingly popular with all should be the story of "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp" the gorgeous pictorial version of the famous Arabian Nights' story, which is to be the feature offering at the Opera House today. Here is a feature that should delight the grown-ups quite as much as it will the children. It is the old favorite story that delighted you as a youngster and is adapted to this stage in a production of a motion picture, and the Warner Features Inc. have surrounded their star, Miss Elsie Albert with an all-star cast.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The play in which the Merrimack Square Theatre Players are to be seen this week starting with today's matinee is one which will never grow old. It has been presented more times than any other play, yet its popularity is still at its peak today as it was when this splendid bill was first produced. All the different members of the company have been cast to excellent advantage, there being so many choice parts in the play and Director Syones has arranged a scenic production on par with any of the parts presented.

As usual the latest photo-plays will be shown before and between the acts and these are changed three times weekly, Sunday, Monday and Thursday. Seats for all performances are now on sale at the box office. Owing to the length of the performances, curtain at two and eight. No one seated after the rise of the first curtain until after the act.

KEITH'S THEATRE

"The Fountain," one of Paul Seldom's "Poems in Marble" to be presented at the Keith Theatre this week, is quite the most remarkable creation of its kind ever shown on any stage. The idea originated in the brain of Herr Seldom and it was carried out to the greatest perfection. Three figures are shown the main one that of a beautiful and chastely draped woman, appearing at the top, bearing on her arm an urn, from which sprouts a stream of water. Upbearing the fountain proper are three male figures, the figures of faulted athletes, each with one knee on the ground, while the arms are above the head. The splendid muscular development of these three men is indicated. Not during the 35 seconds that the group is exhibited there is no apparent sign of breathing. Different colored lights are thrown onto the group, creating color seeming to bring into relief a different set of features and a tremendously impressive production. Yet it is but one of the numerous groups to be shown. The two antique reproductions, "Gaiety" and the old Greek legend of the statue of a beautiful woman coming to life, and "Abduction," figures from David's immortal painting, "The Rape of the Sabinas," are correctly given, and will be keenly appreciated by all who are familiar with the originals. The subjects created by Mr. Seldom are as follows:

"Voice of Spring," "Surprise," "Chastity," "Dancing Bacchante," "Rescued," "The Wrestlers" and "The Immortal." In this latter a lovely runner is seen reaching for the laurel wreath which is handed to the winner of the foot race. This is one of the most difficult of the poses, because of the fact that the model must practically sustain his entire weight on the toes and ball of one foot. The whole production will be given here exactly as it was produced in all of the leading theatres of Europe and of America. Mr. Seldom has secured the art centres of the very best models and there he will present. Remarkable control of muscle and ability to strike a pose correctly at very short notice are required of the three men and the woman who constitute the act.

In this big holiday bill, which will surpass any seen here thus far this season, are several notable features, including Miss Grace Wilson, the girl with a million friends. Her great good nature, her winning smile and her ability to do something wholly original, have made her one of the most sought after performers in vaudeville. Miss Wilson is a southerner who was forced upon the stage a few years ago, and who at once was known to be a winner. Her path has been one steadily upwards, until now she is ranked as one of the best paid women in vaudeville.

A novelty in the form of two young women floating out into space will be shown in the act called "The Girl in the Moon." Miss Jennie Lind and Miss Eleanor Murray appear in this, the latter as the fairy princess who distributes favors to her audience, and the other as the vocalist who gives splendid numbers.

Bryan Lee and Mary Cranston are prepared to give one of the most striking singing acts in vaudeville. Mr. Lee is known as "the Chaucer" of vaudeville. Miss Cranston is the very embodiment of pretty Irish femininity. The Manning Twins are splendid acrobatic dancing girls, and the Stan Stanley Trio, two women and a man, come direct to this city from Boston, where they have created a furore with their work. Max Williams is a stunning comedian. The Pathe weekly pictures will be as good as ever. Those desiring tickets for Thanksgiving day, Thursday, should make special efforts to get them in advance. They may be obtained at the theatre box office.

The illustration shows a section of the vast oil fields near here, which produce millions of dollars' worth of petroleum.

The tide was coming in fast and by the time Lynch had procured a boat and rowed it around to the place the water had reached the man's waist. When Lynch got the stranger ashore, four men appeared and stated that he had been with them in Robbins street, Everett. They were allowed to take him home.

The wheels caught in the car tracks, causing the equipage almost to upset. Miss Griswold was thrown out, but escaped serious injury. Miss Almy was not hurt.

FLIRTED WITH DEATH

POLICE COLLECTED 120 STICKS OF DYNAMITE ALONG AUTO SPEEDWAY IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 24.—The police let it be known today that for three weeks automobilists have been flirting with death as they drove along Grant boulevard, the favorite motor track between the fashionable East End district and South Pittsburgh. During that time they have collected 120 sticks of dynamite apparently scattered systematically along the road. Late yesterday they located another lot in the boulevard and arrested Herman Lelgman, alleging he knew something of the obnoxious of a contractor's magazine from which they declare the dynamite was stolen.

4 CLUNG TO UPSET BOAT

MEN HELD ON FOR AN HOUR BEFORE POLICE ARRIVED AND PULLED THEM ASHORE

NORWOOD, Nov. 24.—Clinging to the bottom of a capsized sailboat for nearly an hour, four men were rescued in an exhausted and fainting condition on New pond, Walpole, yesterday afternoon, by police officers from Norwood who had raced to the pond in an automobile with ropes. The rescued men were John Smith, 11 Highland street, Hyde Park; Emil Gustafson, 15 Savin avenue; John Lind, 43 Savin avenue, and Carl Larson, 18 Quincy avenue, Norwood.

A score of men stood by on the shore and hauled the men to shore in a leaky rowboat that was paddled to their aid by Walter A. Read and Alfred Deane of the Norwood police. Doctors had been sent for in the meantime and gave first aid as soon as the half-drowned men were brought up on the banks of the pond.

RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

It's Ide For Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. The Olive Tablets, 100 and 50c per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, O. All druggists.

THAW AND WIFE HAPPY

BOTH WHITE LETTERS OF THANKS—HARRY FOR SEEING MOTHER AND EVELYN FOR HER SUCCESS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 24.—Two letters—one from Harry K. Thaw, in Concord, N. H., and the other from Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, in Buffalo, are exclusive features of the Thanksgiving number of a Pittsburgh newspaper.

Thaw's mother will be with him next Thursday and in anticipation of what they assert will be the happiest day for them in seven years, Thaw finds much to be thankful for.

"In addition," he says, "to the generally good health of the family, we have reason to be thankful that we have gained many new friends. This compensates for much evil. We are thankful, also, because the only official opposed to us who was up for re-election was most decisively beaten."

"This man was well thought of in Dutchess county and would have been re-elected, had he not been friendly with a few persons who were trying to keep me in Matteawan."

"I'm thankful," writes Evelyn, "that I'm earning my own living and able to pay for my own dinner, whether it's Thanksgiving or any other dinner. I am especially thankful that I have the most beautiful child in the world."

"I'm thankful that I'm well and strong, and that if I keep on working I shall be able to purchase a chalet in Switzerland, a villa in Italy or a fine farm in picturesque Pennsylvania, where I will be able to settle down and live happily ever after. I'm thankful for my fair prospect of returning to my life work and some day make the ghosts of Phidias, Praxiteles and Michelangelo sit up and take notice."

SAFE BLOWERS

$200 Haul From Boston Store—Robber Seen Running on Roofs

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—For the third time within a year a safe cracked in the large business building at 11-13 Eliot street, early yesterday morning. The firm of Grass & Miller, clothing manufacturers, fell victim on this occasion. From their wrecked safe was taken $200 in cash.

At 4 o'clock yesterday morning, Pierre Pomes, a baker, whose sleeping apartment in a large street house overlooks the arway at the rear of the Eliot street building, glanced out of his window, took another look, and then let loose a roar that shattered the Sunday stillness.

Escapes By Window

His shouts of alarm were quickly acted upon by a man whom he had discerned, flashlight in hand, on the fire escape that extends along the rear wall of the Eliot street building.

The man dashed down the iron stairway, ran the length of a roof, just above the arway, jumped across a small alley, sprinted along another stretch of roof and disappeared within the open window of a shop located in the second story of a building that fronts on Washington street.

Pomes gave the alarm to the Lagrange police station nearby by phone. The reserves were hurried out, but after the block had been surrounded a minute search showed that the yegg had made good his escape. After entering the shop by the open window he made tracks down the front hall stairway to Washington street.

COMMANDERS OF CARRANZA'S ARMY AND PIECE OF HUERTA'S ARTILLERY

CULIACAN, Mexico, Nov. 24.—The rebel troops, which have won control of much of the west coast of Mexico, are recruiting actively, and a large army will, it is said, move on Chihuahua. General Obregon and his chief aid, General Irujo, are in charge of the rebel army which was formed by General Carranza and is his largest detachment. Carranza's men control the whole state of Sinaloa. They have secured a large troop of Yaqui Indians, which are celebrated fighters and horsemen. These aborigines have been of great service against the federals, most of them being mounted men. In the accompanying picture Generals Obregon and Irujo are shown sitting, with the three leaders of the Yaqui Indian division standing behind them.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

ON THE PANAMA CANAL

Colonel Goethals, Chairman and Chief Engineer, Submits Report to Secretary Garrison

No definite date for the official opening of the Panama canal is set in the annual report of Col. George Goethals, chairman and chief engineer of the canal commission, which has just been submitted to Secretary Garrison at Washington. Neither is there any prediction of when the ships may first pass from ocean to ocean. The first day of the canal's actual operation still depends upon the treacherous slides of Culebra cut and how fast the dredges can keep the channels open.

The opinion that the water may to some extent develop new slides, arising much as was made in 1909 over the seamy character of rock on the isthmus, through which water flows quite rapidly, in consequence of which the question was raised that the lake might leak out through seams and cracks.

"If these things are liable to occur, the sooner the better. If the official opening of the canal is to occur in 1915, for if water were not admitted this fall but were deferred until May 1, 1914, the full height could not be reached until October, 1914, leaving little time for the determination of these questions. These considerations led to the conclusion that the water should be turned into the cut at the earliest date practicable for getting the dredges to work on the slides.

"The present plans, therefore, are based upon the blowing up of Gamboa dike on Oct. 10, its removal by dredges immediately thereafter, the transfer of two suction dredges and a ladder dredge to the Culebra slide, the smaller dipper dredges to work on the other slides until the full width of the channel is attained, and the passage of vessels through the canal as soon as channels of full depth and of sufficient width have been secured.

Remove Gamboa Dike

"Before the boats can be passed it will be necessary to remove the Gamboa dike by dredges and to remove the slides as already outlined. The passage of commercial vessels is dependent, therefore, upon the time when proper channels can be dredged through the slides; should additional ones occur, they will necessarily advance the date when this will be accomplished.

The canal proper, exclusive of the approaches, the machine shops and warehouses and great ocean docks at either end, would have been completed during the last fiscal year, but for the extensive slides in the Culebra Cut. And to deal with the great problems involved in the removal of the slides no effective way was found except the bodily displacement of vast hills. The slides and breaks increased as the cut was deepened.

"No treatment has proved effective for slides, when once developed, except that of excavating and hauling away material from the moving mass until the slide comes to rest or until this angle of repose for the particular material in motion is reached," said Col. Goethals.

Last year it was predicted by geologists that the slides had been conquered and that little more activity could be expected because all the loose surface soil and stone had almost slid off, exposing great ridges of solid salt rock which would act as barriers to further earth movements. Yet, when all was most promising and the canal excavation had gotten within 50 feet of the bottom of the cut on the east side, the locks broke under the tremendous pressure and 2,000,000 cubic yards of material slid into and closed up the cut.

Since then, the canal workers have been digging away that material and though there have been several slides, steady progress was made, for not only did giant dredges work on the face of the slides, but powerful hydraulic monitors, such as were extensively used in hydraulic mining on the Pacific coast, were brought into play to wash away the treacherous hills from the rear, carrying the material into unused valleys distant from the canal.

Engineering Problem

A great engineering problem was involved in the solution of the question of continuing the excavation of the canal by steam shovels or by hydraulic dredges and Col. Goethals for the first time makes an official statement of the reasons which impelled him to choose the wet method.

In brief these were based on the apprehension that Gamboa dike would not be strong or high enough to keep the water out of the cut as the Gatun lake rose in the wet season. Also, steam shovel operations would be retarded by the seasonal rains which would not affect the operation of the dredges and finally the measure was one of economy. It would have been possible, with the shovels, to have removed all of the slides by January 1, 1914, next, except the Cucaracha slide which could not have been entirely carried off before April, 1914.

Has Cost $340,505,223

The financial operations of the canal are told in big figures: The disbursing officer has paid out $30,524,705 on pay rolls alone. Congress so far has appropriated $345,505,223 for canal construction, of which $19,672,250 went for fortifications.

In great detail Colonel Goethals tells the story of the engineers' work during the last year and with particular satisfaction it is reported that the mechanism of the vast locks and dams was tested with perfect success. The gates at Gatun were swung in one minute and fifty seconds, for each leaf. The heavy iron chains which are depended upon to prevent an unruly vessel from crashing into the locks were raised and lowered in ample time to meet any emergency, and demonstrated their ability to check or stop any vessel unless of very great size and moving at excessive speed. The locomotives which with low tire steps through the locks were tried out and proved their ability to easily handle the largest of vessels and the electric installation which will involve the use of a current of 14,000 volts pressure was completely successful.

Although the technical sections of the report seem to demonstrate the accuracy of Colonel Goethals' statement that practically nothing but the great slide at Cucaracha remains to prevent the successful operation of the canal.

PRISON REFORM

Foss Says 10,000 are Sent to Jail Only for Poverty

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—"Out of 27,000 sentences each year to Massachusetts jails and prisons, approximately 10,000 are not for any crime whatever, but only for poverty," said Governor Foss in a statement issued last night. "This happens," he continued, "because the law has permitted judges to throw into jail persons who are too poor to pay small fines."

The governor announced an intention of devoting considerable time to prison reform, upon retirement from office, as he had become greatly impressed with the injustice of the present system. He urged that every man sent to jail should be given an opportunity to earn money for the support of his dependent family.

SONG OF THANKSGIVING

ST. ANNE'S CHURCH, CHORUS HELD SPECIAL SERVICE LAST NIGHT AND RENDERED RICH MUSIC

The parishioners of St. Anne's church were given a fine opportunity to listen to excellent music last night, when the church choir which is composed of men and boys rendered in a charming manner Maunders' beautiful cantata "Song of Thanksgiving."

The service was held in the church, which was well filled and the rather difficult music was rendered by the choir of 25 voices without any outside assistance. The opening number was "O Come Let Us Sing Unto the Lord," and this was rendered with precision and a charm which reflected much credit on both the singers and the director and organist, Charles Brown. The latter and Miss Alice Rogers Leith gave a duet with organ and piano that was most pleasing.

Miss Alice Rogers Leith presided at the piano and the soloists were Arthur Smith and J. Vanneburg, tenors; Frank Mills and Harry Priestley, basses; Teddy Fletcher and Archie Campbell, sopranos.

HIGHLAND M. E. CHURCH

REV. DR. BIRNEY, DEAN OF BOSTON SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY, THE PREACHER YESTERDAY

At the Highland M. E. church, yesterday, L. J. Birney, Ph. D., D. D., dean of Boston University school of theology, preached at the morning service and in the evening the preacher was Rev. George B. Dean, superintendent of the Worcester division.

Dr. Birney preached from the text "God is Love," and, in opening, said: "Of the three words said to be sweetest in our language, one is home."

We are just now nearing that beautiful season when hearts all over this great country of the stars and stripes, again turn back to the old home fireside, and the day when thousands will turn back to be for a little while under the old roof tree. What is it that makes the heart thrill at this season? It is the consciousness of parental love. Take that out, and you have utterly shattered the home feeling. What is it that gives up a sensation of warmth and comfort in the soul? It is the consciousness of a heavenly father's love. Take that out, and you have shattered the very substance of our Christian religion. Our heavenly father loves us, as I have uttered in those words, the summing up of all the theology about God."

The New Munsey Magazine

A radical overturning of old theories in magazine making. A complete book-length novel takes the place of the serial story. A $1.50 book and a standard illustrated magazine all in one. No longer any "Continued in Our Next" in Munsey's Magazine. Everything complete in each issue.

I HAVE made this sweeping change in Munsey's Magazine, cutting out all serial stories, for the reason that magazines built on old lines have lost their grip on the public. The day for the serialization of novels in monthly periodicals is gone, and gone forever.

The public is no longer willing to wait from month to month for fragments of a novel, the whole story dragging through six or eight or ten months. And the novel is the great pulling force in periodical publications. Without it, magazine circulation as a whole, that is, normal, spontaneous circulation, not bargain-counter circulation, would drop perhaps eighty-five per cent.

Weekly publications, Sunday supplements of the daily press and the dailies themselves have usurped the place of the monthly in the presentation of serial stories.

But the monthly magazine has its place. It can do what the dailies and weeklies cannot do. It can publish a complete book-length novel in a single issue, and this "puts it all over" the serialized novel, however ideally presented.

This new move of Munsey's Magazine opens up a new field of wider usefulness and wider popularity for magazines. It gives them a definite work to do and solves the problem of furnishing new books to the public at a price well within the reach of all.

In initiating this broad policy in magazine making, Munsey's Magazine has given the public something new and something big. The complete novel in Munsey's for December (Christmas issue) is

by

George Barr McCutcheon

It is as good a novel as McCutcheon has ever written, and McCutcheon stands with the very first in popularity among the novel writers of the present time. A gauge of his popularity is found in the fact that in book form, at $1.50 a copy, his novels sell up into the hundreds of thousands.

In Munsey's Magazine "Black is White" will cost you 15c; in book form it will cost you $1.50, and in Munsey's Magazine you will get it first—get it before it has ever appeared elsewhere.

The complete novels in Munsey's Magazine are not mere novelettes, but full-length book novels. Make no mistake about this. Of course, the publication of a book-length novel complete in one issue of a magazine means a mammoth magazine in reading pages. Munsey's Magazine is a mammoth magazine in reading pages—228 pages this month. Magazines running along on old lines give, on an average, say three serialized novels a year. Munsey's Magazine will now give twelve complete novels, which means $18.00 worth of books a year.

Quite apart from the complete McCutcheon novel in the December Munsey, it is a very splendid Christmas magazine, rich in illustrations and generous in short stories, articles, and such miscellany as goes to make complete a standard illustrated magazine. Get the December number of Munsey's Magazine and see the kind of a magazine it is. Seeing for yourself means something.

Girls! Try This! Makes Your Hair

Thick, Glossy, Fluffy, Beautiful

Within ten minutes after an application of Dandruff you cannot find a single strand of hair falling out and your scalp will not itch, but will be after a few weeks use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Dandruff immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and straggly, just moisten a cloth with Dandruff and carefully draw it through your hair, taking out small strands at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance, an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Dandruff from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—all you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Dandruff.

GOT WRONG BODY KILLED BY AUTO

Girl Paid for Shipping Supposed Corpse of Her Missing Fiance

AVOCA, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Miss Ella Rynders of this village, not only has the estate of her fiance, James Greene, a farmer, who disappeared on the eve of his wedding day, to look after, but in addition now has the body of an unknown man, probably hundreds of miles away from his relatives, on her hands.

The body, which was positively identified by Thomas Hatch in Jackson, Mich., Thursday, as being that of Greene, the missing bridegroom, arrived here last night. One glance was enough to prove to Miss Rynders that she had paid the expense of bringing the body of an unknown man to this village, and now she is in a predicament.

How Hatch, who knew the real Greene, could have mistaken the man killed in Michigan for the missing bridegroom, puzzles little here. It is said that Greene little resembles the dead man.

Machine Struck Pole at Franklin, N. H., and Turned Turtle

FRANKLIN, N. H., Nov. 24.—Mrs. Little Leavitt was instantly killed and two persons were injured yesterday morning when an automobile owned and operated by Harry Bennett of East Tilton, bound for Saugus, Mass., after getting a telegraph pole in this town, upset.

Mrs. Leavitt, who was Bennett's mother-in-law and 65 years old, struck on the back of her head as she was hurled from the machine and was instantly killed. Her skull was fractured by the impact.

Bennett and Mrs. Josephine Philbrick, who is his housekeeper, were both stunned and badly shaken up. Fortunately, they were thrown clear of the overturning automobile and escaped the falling body of the machine as it flipped over in the road.

Mrs. Philbrick was taken to the Franklin hospital and Bennett to the police station, to be later released in $500 bonds to appear in court when called.

Bennett is a member of the firm of Gray & Bennett at East Tilton, where he also owns a summer hotel.

With his mother-in-law and housekeeper he started yesterday morning to visit friends in Saugus. The police say his machine was traveling at a high rate of speed when it struck this town.

On the main thoroughfare, Central street, the auto skidded on the wet macadam roadbed and struck a telegraph pole, rebounded on the road and turned over.

The body of Mrs. Leavitt was taken to the Bennett home, and after physicians treated both Mrs. Philbrick and Bennett they were likewise assisted to East Tilton by friends.

JOY RIDERS IN COLLISION

Wealthy Woman Injured in Auto Crash After Attending Football Festivities—Other Wrecks

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—A young woman, wearing an expensive Russian fur coat, estimated to be worth thousands of dollars, was severely injured and five other people had narrow escapes from death, when two automobiles came together near the Wellington bridge, Somerville, early yesterday morning.

The young woman who is believed to be a resident of the Back Bay was taken in a helpless condition to the office of Dr. A. K. Paine of 355 Commonwealth avenue and was later taken to her home. Dr. Paine last night refused to tell her identity.

Incidentally the accident caused the fathers of two Boston young women to hunt through the hospitals all day Sunday, and to ask for police assistance in locating their daughters, who they had heard were either killed or severely injured in the accident.

The greatest efforts were made to conceal the accident, and at the time all concerned declined to give their names.

The accident occurred when a car driven by A. H. Schoellkopf, a wealthy student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, living at Buffalo, N. Y., who was with a girl, said to be a well-known society girl, returning from celebrating the Harvard-Yale game at Fennercroft, collided with an automobile driven by Howard Weston, a wealthy man of Scowhegan, Me., who had with him A. W. Spencer, 20 Lowell place, Arlington Heights; Miss Mabel Clark and Miss Olive Bullock, of Wymant street, Jamaica Plain.

The Weston party had been in Boston and Cambridge, where they were preparing to take part in a play to be given by the Newton club. About midnight Weston started for Portland, Me., and, after much pleading on the part of the girls, their mothers allowed them to accompany him, with the understanding they were to go to the home of friends as soon as they reached Portland.

Both cars wrecked.

Friends warned them not to take the regular route to Portland, on account of the joy riders who would be returning to Boston from automobile races. On that account they chose the Wellington bridge route, but just before reaching the bridge, they noticed Schoellkopf approaching.

According to the story of the driver of the car, the Weston car was going at a high rate of speed and zigzagging from side to side, taking up the whole road. Weston claims he saw him coming and was almost at a standstill when the Schoellkopf machine crashed into him. Both cars are practically wrecked.

Schoellkopf and his woman companion were thrown out of their machine and from the Weston car the two girls and Spencer were thrown out.

Passing automobiles took the two girls in the Weston car to the Spencer home in Arlington, where they remained all night, not returning home until about 10 o'clock last evening.

Schoellkopf's companion, who appeared badly injured, was rushed in another car to the residence of Dr. A. K. Paine, 355 Commonwealth avenue. She arrived there about 2 o'clock. The elevator was shut down, and she was carried upstairs into his office, as she was not able to walk.

At Dr. Paine's house it was stated she was a regular patient, and a member of a well-known and wealthy family. She is said to be severely injured from the effects of the accident. She was attended by the doctor and later sent to her home in another automobile. It is said she will be confined to her bed for some time to come.

Saturday evening before the accident Schoellkopf had been entertaining a party of young women at Fennercroft and started for Boston in a late hour. According to others at the time, he was accompanied by a woman, who boasted that she possessed the most beautiful furs in the city of Boston.

FOOTBALL PARTIES IN ACTO SMASHUP ON COMMONWEALTH AVENUE, BOSTON

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—Several persons narrowly escaped serious injury when two automobiles collided at the corner of Exeter street and Commonwealth avenue yesterday afternoon. One of the automobiles in collision, owned by A. J. Hoe of 152 West 85th street, New York city, was badly smashed. The other machine escaped with the loss of one spoke of the forward left wheel. None of the occupants was injured.

It appears that the Hoe party had come to Boston to attend the Harvard-Yale football game on Saturday. In the wrecked machine with Mr. Hoe were Mrs. Hoe, E. L. Ostendorf, of 834 West Broadway, New York city, and a woman whose name could not be learned.

According to one of the passengers in the Hoe automobile, the party was proceeding down Commonwealth avenue on its way to the Hotel Bellevue. At the intersection of Commonwealth avenue and Exeter street a big touring car in charge of a man giving the name of W. A. Bacon, the Cloister, New Haven, and having an occupants, two women and another man, dashed along Exeter street and tried to cross Commonwealth avenue. It is said that this machine was going toward the left of the avenue and tried to avoid a collision, while the driver of the Bacon machine applied the brakes, but without avail. The two automobiles crashed, the forward wheels locked and the machines skidded across the avenue to the curb, the wheels of the Bacon machine cutting the roadway for several feet.

The Bacon automobile had a cardboard automobile number sign with the Illinois number 75314, and according to the records at the Motor Mart, let this place at 12.45. A chauffeur who was standing outside the Hotel Fenox said the party stopped at the hotel, and that when they drove away just before the accident he predicted they would come to grief at the rate of speed they were going.

The automobile owned by Mr. Hoe had its forward right wheel smashed and also the right guard.

RAIDED BY POLICE

$2000 in Liquors Was Seized From Braintree Club—Two Trips Made

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—The Cedarcrest Outing Club on Quincy avenue, East Braintree, was raided yesterday morning by Chief of Police Horace W. Hunt and Patrolman Jeremiah J. Gallivan of East Braintree, and by Chief Burrill, Sergeant Bishop, Inspector Goodhue and Officers Riley, Duffy, Black, Sweeney, Cahill and Ferguson of the Quincy force.

While the raid was in progress nearly a score of autos stopped at the place, but chauffeurs and occupants beat a hasty exit, and several private suppers were cooked of their wines and uncere moniously ended by the diners. Among the latter were some New York people and members of the sporting fraternity, regaling themselves after the Harvard-Yale football contest.

The place has been conducted by Mrs. I. Grace Reynolds, who has been assisted by her two daughters, both young women of prepossessing appearance. A bartender, his assistant and a half-dozen young men, nattily attired as waiters. They were so overcome with surprise that they offered no resistance to the raiding officers, who made a thorough search, from the bar room on the first floor near to the wine storage rooms on the third floor.

This contraband goods included five cases of champagne, three cases of imported sherry, four barrels of ale, 800 bottles of Bass ale and porter, gins, brandies, wines of rarest vintage and cordials galore to the value of nearly $2000. It required two trips of the police department to take the seized packages to Quincy, where they were stored awaiting court action. There was no place in Braintree to safely put them under lock and key, even at the poor farm, sometimes resorted to for that purpose, so they were placed in an old stone building next to the Quincy police station.

WILD AUTO RUNS DOWN POLICE- MAN, FELLS TREE, SHAKES UP RIDERS AND WRECKS MACHINE

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—A large touring car, occupied by six persons, went on a joy ride of its own yesterday in Medford and before the car could be brought to a stop, a Medford police officer was carried to the police station in a semi-conscious condition, an elm tree was overturned, part of the machine was wrecked and the occupants were severely shaken up.

The machine, owned and driven by Herman Cohen of 20 Nahant avenue, Revere, and occupied by James Cohen, Miss Rose Norman, Miss Jose Cohen, Miss Esther Singer and a friend, all of the same address, began its wild career when it skidded on Barehill road, near Main street, on a section of the Revere beach boulevard.

Mr. Cohen, who was at the wheel, lost control of the touring car, which began to whirl around and around on the slippery tar-coated boulevard, carrying the passengers in a dizzy spin. A lurch brought the machine racing at high speed straight up the boulevard. The passengers clung to their seats as the machine crashed against an elm tree beside the road, breaking the tree off near the ground and carrying with it the entire hood of the machine and the mud guards, beside wrecking other parts of the touring car.

With the machinery still purring at a rate of 40 miles an hour and the occupants crying for aid to Police Officer Randall, who was several hundred yards beyond, the automobile started a zig-zag course, swerving from one side of the road to the other. Officer Randall was not quick enough in avoiding the wild machine as it sped toward him, and was struck a side blow, knocking his feet from under him and hurling him into a thick growth of brush at the side of the road.

After a mad dash of a half a mile Cohen brought the machine to a stop and went back to hunt for the injured officer, who was still lying in the clump of bushes.

STOLEN IN 70'S

Man Thinks That Mosaic Bought for $1 Was Taken in Big Robbery

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—The rare Italian mosaic purchased at a Boston rummage sale for $1 by a Nantucket man last week is now believed to be the gem which was stolen from a well known Boston jeweler's wife in a big summer hotel robbery at Nantucket away back in the 70's, and for which an almost country-wide search was conducted for years afterward.

Dr. Charles Harwood of 536 Commonwealth avenue, who read a description of the gem bought by the Nantucket man at such a ridiculously low figure at the rummage sale, thinks it tallies with the mosaic which was stolen from his mother in a Nantucket hotel at which she was spending the summer, more than 40 years ago.

Dr. Harwood has communicated with the Nantucket purchaser, and says he feels sure that if it proves to be the same mosaic that was stolen from his mother, a flattering offer will be made for it by his father, Willard Harwood of Medfield, who is the proprietor of a large wholesale jewelry concern in Boston. He thinks his father would be willing to pay many times the intrinsic value of the gem to possess it again after all these years because of sentimental associations connected with it.

The mosaic which was stolen from Dr. Harwood's mother was a gift brought from Italy by the elder Dr. Harwood, and was Mrs. Harwood's favorite jewel.

among which the more important are large stored-up timber supplies, comparatively low stumpage and lumber values, lack of market for many minor forest products, and a public sentiment which has not realized that forest production is essentially the growing of successive crops.

Present tendencies in private forestry indicate a more logical development than at any time since forest conservation became an issue. Instead of attempting to put immediate effect complete policies and an intensive management which are scientifically correct, the things now being attempted are the logical steps which will ultimately lead to systematic long-time management of private forest lands. The private owner is learning that fire protection is possible and that it pays. With this fact established, other things will be taken up and worked out until the progressive timberland owner will find that he is practicing the kind of forestry which pays in this country.

"In a word, private forestry, as it can be properly practiced in the United States today, is not the intensive forestry of Germany, but the application of protective and close utilization-measures with provisions for natural regeneration. These principles, applied as economic conditions permit, will build up the art and practice of forestry in America."

PROFESSOR OF PALEONTOLOGY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Entrance on a new field of experiment in educational work was made public today by Secretary Lane of the interior department who announced the temporary withdrawal from the geological survey of Dr. L. W. Stephenson to occupy a chair in the university of California. The government scientist is to become professor of paleontology and both the government and the university are expected to benefit through the arrangement.

U. S. FORESTRY SERVICE

Future Timber Supply Must Depend Upon Private Forests, According to E. A. Sterling

WASHINGTON, November 24.—After the remaining virgin timber of the United States is exhausted, forest supplies will have to come from national forests, state forests, or from privately-owned land; but federal and state forests, according to E. A. Sterling, director of the American Forestry association, who addressed the national conservation congress this afternoon, constitute only one-fifth of the total forest area of the country.

"On private land," he says, "the timber of the future will be either sprung up on cut-over land and has managed to escape fire, or that from areas which have been devoted to forest production as a business enterprise. So far the practice of private forestry has been mainly confined to small operations, often more for pleasure than for profit. An intensive forest policy on a scale large enough to establish its commercial feasibility, has not yet been undertaken."

"Private forestry in the United States has been retarded by many influences

NOT IN METHUEN
Town Refuses Petition of Gulf Refining Co. to Install Tanks

The town of Methuen has again refused the Gulf Refining company permission to install four 15,000 gallon tanks, to be used for the storing of petroleum products, in that town.

This verdict was reached by the board of selectmen Saturday afternoon after a hearing at which vigorous remonstrance was offered by property holders of the town.

The selectmen received a petition, signed by 310 citizens of Methuen, asking that the Gulf Refining company be refused the permit.

The Gulf Refining company petitioned to "keep, store and use petroleum products—kerosene and gasoline, the same to be stored in four 15,000 gallon cylindrical tanks erected on steel supports. Location 100 by 100 feet on Boston & Maine property, about 200 feet north of Oakland avenue."

The following property owners were prominent among those who spoke against granting the permit for the tanks: John S. Hildreth and George B. Bradbury of Railroad street (in the immediate vicinity of the proposed tank locations), Joseph M. Emsey, David Ackroyd, George Slader, Mrs. Charles Emerson of Railroad street and Mr. Cox.

The remonstrants stated to the board that in their opinion, the installation of the tanks would greatly depreciate the value of their property, as there was danger of fire from sparks from locomotives passing also from lighting in the summer time.

The Gulf Refining company was represented by Attorney John P. S. Mahoney of Lawrence.

PRES. WILSON'S MESSAGE
WHICH WILL BE READ TO CONGRESS WILL BE FINISHED TO-MORROW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—President Wilson's annual message which he will read to congress will be finished to-morrow but just when it will be delivered will depend upon the convenience of both houses in arranging a joint session. Hitherto the president's message has been read the day after the convening of congress.

It is expected that the president will read considerably on the need for early action on the currency bill and that he will develop in a general way the attitude of the administration toward trust legislation, leaving to the congressional committees the task of writing specific remedies. He also will refer to the Mexican situation.

TETTER IN COURT
MAY BE INSANEMan Who Brutally Assaulted Two Girls Saturday to be Examined
—Other Cases in Court

The novel and brutal spectacle of a partially intoxicated man striking two girls to the ground Saturday night on Central street aroused the ire of passersby to such an extent that they seized the perpetrator of the outrage and held him until an officer made his appearance and placed the man under arrest.

Margaret Carroll and a girl whose identity was not discovered were walking along Central street when Octave Tetter stepped up to each one of them as they came along and struck them brutally. The girls were not together.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT

Case Against Fifield Estate on Trial—Judge Pratt Presides at Waived Session

When superior court reconvened at the county court house on Gorham street this morning the jury in the case of Margaret L. Roodry vs. Inez M. Harding reported a verdict of $25 for the plaintiff. The action was one of tort to recover for severe injuries claimed to have been sustained by Mrs. Roodry when a board walk upon which she was walking broke and threw her to the ground. Albert S. Howard for the plaintiff and J. Gilbert Hill for the defendant.

O'Connor vs. Hill.

The next case called was that of James A. O'Connor vs. Amos F. Hill and Dora A. Chase, administrators of the will of the late George W. Fifield, John J. and William A. Hogan appearing for the plaintiff and Tyler and Young for the defendants.

The plaintiff claims that the defendant's testator owes him the sum of $480 for work and labor performed by him from August 1, 1910, to January 30, 1911, at the plant of the Fifield Machine Company.

The defendants deny the allegations in the plaintiff's writ and declaration and state that if the testator ever owed the plaintiff any money, the latter has been paid. They further claim that if the plaintiff ever entered into any contractual relationship for employment with said testator, the said contract for employment terminated on or about August 1, 1910, and that the defendant was paid in full for services to that date.

The evidence in the case of O'Connor vs. Amos F. Hill and Dora A. Chase, administrators, was completed shortly after noon and the case was given to the jury.

Jury Waived Session

In the superior court session, without jury, before Judge Pratt this morning the case of Edward W. Arndt and George B. Thompson, co-partners under the name of Arndt, Thompson & Co., vs. George Palantios and Elias Doanokos, co-partners under the name of George Palantios & Co., was heard. F. A. Fisher for the plaintiff and Fisher Pearson for the defendant.

The plaintiffs claim that on August 7, 1912, they and the defendants entered into a contract wherein the plaintiffs undertook and agreed to sell to the defendants, and the defendants agreed to purchase from the plaintiffs, 200 barrels of flour at $4.50 per barrel. That 100 barrels to be shipped shortly after September 1, 1912, and the remaining 100 on request of the defendant after November 1. Upon the arrival of said instalments of flour the defendants were to pay the price agreed by accepting draft payable at the Lowell Trust company. It is claimed that the defendants contrary to their agreement refused to accept the draft after 100 barrels of flour had been shipped. The shipment was then stored at the Bay State Warehouse company and storage charges have accrued and there has been a great loss in the market premium of said flour. The plaintiffs claim that the defendants owe them because of refusing to accept said 100 barrels of flour.

Ship to Start for Mexico

VERA CRUZ, Nov. 24.—The American fleet in Mexican waters is ready to land men at any moment here or at Tampico or Tampico. The vessels carry a total of about 2000 well trained marines. In the illustration the United States ship Nebraska is shown, together with a photo taken from the decks of the Virginia, showing her guns pointing at the city of Vera Cruz. These craft are two of the leading members of the squadron. That there is immediate peril to the oil tanks at Tampico and Tampico was indicated by the information of Rear Admiral Fletcher that at the request of Rear Admiral Boush he had sent the battleship New Hampshire to Tampico. This movement was made without instruction from Washington and without the knowledge of the Washington authorities until after the New Hampshire was on her way. The Louisiana is already at Tampico, and there was keen speculation to understand why the New

CITY ENGINEER
PLANNING WORKDemand for a New Pawtucket
Bridge — No Extra Appropriations
Can be Made Next Year

City Engineer Kearney is busy on bridge estimates for next year, having been asked by Commissioner Donnelly to look over the bridges with an idea of rebuilding some of them under the form of construction used in the Moody street canal bridge, concrete arches reinforced by hybrid self-centering arches which require no wooden forms in which to place the concrete.

The demand for a new Pawtucket bridge to replace the old bridge near the falls continues to grow and while speaking in that section during the primary election campaign, Mayor O'Donnell was asked why the present city government had not planned something tangible toward the creation of a new bridge. The mayor replied that the city's finances did not warrant a consideration of a new bridge at this time. He said that the present city government had gone to the legislature and had asked to be allowed to borrow beyond the debt limit and that the proposition had been turned down because of the fact that it was opposed by legislators from the Pawtucketville district.

Financial Hunt Next Year

In planning for bridge, street, sewer and other expenses for 1914 the planners will have to hear in mind that next year the government will not be allowed to make any extra departmental appropriations during the year, or in other words that appropriations made in the beginning of the year will have to suffice for the entire year.

In order to offset any hardship worked by this law the legislature gave cities authority to increase their tax limit in order to make up the difference, so to speak, and a great many cities took advantage of the opportunity to meet conditions in that way. Lowell, however, was not one of the number. Mayor O'Donnell advocated it, but he was hopelessly in the minority and the city government for 1914 will have to face the music.

Among the bridges that are being considered by the city engineer's department at the present time is the Lawrence street bridge over the Con-

BOOTH BROTHERS SHAKE

REUNITED AFTER ESTRANGE-
MENT OF 17 YEARS—MEETING WAS A PRIVATE ONE

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—After an estrangement of 17 years, Bramwell Booth and Bellingham Booth shook hands today as the luncheon guests of the Rev. Alden Bennett, a mutual friend. The meeting was private and, according to announcement, was "a brotherly one, entirely concerned with personal matters."

Presumably, the suggested amalgamation of the Salvation army and the Volunteers of America of which the brothers are the respective leaders, was not broached.

JUDGE TAKES A HAND

RESUMES SELF-IMPOSED TASK OF FINDING OUT WHY LIFE OF U. S.
SOLDIER IS "WORTH ONLY $750"

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Judge Landis in the U. S. district court today resumed his self-imposed task of finding out why the life of a United States soldier is "worth only $750," and as a preliminary removed Attorney Edward J. Smekal from the case and appointed two other lawyers.

Smekal was attorney for Mrs. Mary Panek, whose son, Edward, a soldier, was killed in a recent train wreck. The agreement whereby the railroad settled with Mrs. Panek for $750, of which $250 was introduced, Mrs. Panek, being sworn, said she had to support herself and that she earned $3.50 a week.

ARMY AVIATORS KILLED

LIEUTENANTS ELLINGTON AND
KELLEY FELL 80 FEET FROM AEROPLANE

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 24.—Lieutenants Ellington and Kelley, first division of the army aviation corps, were killed today in a fall of about 80 feet in an aeroplane. The accident occurred across the bay from San Diego on the grounds of the army school on North Island.

Kelley was first lieutenant in the 56th infantry and Ellington, first lieutenant in the third cavalry, U. S. A.

14 FATALITIES FROM AVIATION
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The deaths of Lieutenants Kelley and Ellington today make a total of 14 fatalities from aviation in the government service, 13 in the army and one in the navy, since experiments first began at Fort Myer in 1908. Seven have met death this year.

In aviation accidents of all kinds the world over, 383 men have been killed since 1908, this year's fatalities numbering 197.

Both aviators were single. Lieutenant Ellington was born in North Carolina in 1889 and his next of kin is a brother, J. O. Ellington, of Raleigh. He was detailed to the aviation service in September, 1912, and has been serving on aviation fields at Maryland, Mass., College Park, Md., Palm Beach, Fla., and Texas City. He went to San Diego last June.

Lieutenant Kelley was born in March, 1881. He was detailed to the aviation division last March. He has been at Texas City and San Diego.

CHANTILLY, France, Nov. 24.—M. Courton, a French aviator, was killed today when he fell with his monoplane while flying near here.

RECOUNT VOTES

In Mayoralty Contest—
Very Slight Change in Original Count

The recount of the mayoralty vote at the primary election as petitioned for by friends of Dr. Mignault, over whom the original count gave Dennis J. Murphy a lead of 35 votes, was begun in the councilmanic chamber at city hall at 2 o'clock this morning and it is expected that about 5 o'clock this evening, up to the time of going to press, wards one, two, three, four, five and six and two precincts of ward seven had been counted and it was generally conceded at city hall that the recount would not seriously affect the original count.

In the wards counted Murphy gained thirteen and Mignault gained two, making a net gain of 11 for Murphy. Other candidates gained or lost one or two, but most of the changes had to do with the blanks.

Dr. Mignault was present during the forenoon session and his interests were looked after by W. W. Duncan, candidate for commissioner.

Those engaged in the recount work were: Chairman Omer Allard of the board of registrars of voters; City Clerk Stephen Flynn; Registrars Hugh McOsker and James Rooney, and James Redmond, William Fleming, George Evans, John King and Thomas Bassett, assistants, and Cornelius Sullivan, keeper of the ballot.

There were quite a number of spectators present at the forenoon session, but they seemed to tire of the rather slow process of recount and did not return in the afternoon.

LOCAL MILLS TO CLOSE

FOR THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY—
CARPET MILLS TO CLOSE FOR RE-MAINDER OF WEEK

It was announced today at the Bigelow Carpet Co. that the plant will close its doors Wednesday evening for the remainder of the week. This mill has been through a rather dull period for the past several months, but orders are now coming in and it is hoped by the first of the year the entire plant will run full time.

Inasmuch as there is not very much doing at the present time it was thought best to close the plant Wednesday evening on account of Thanksgiving and not open again until Monday morning, for in this way the employees will be given an opportunity to go out-of-town if they so desire. All the cotton mills will close Thursday only.

Saco-Lowell Shops

The Saco-Lowell shops a week ago increased its working hours from fifty to fifty-four hours per week, and accordingly the new working schedule is from 7 a. m. to 3.30 p. m., and Saturday from 7 a. m. to 12 m. The plant will close Thursday.

FRENCH VOTERS MET

The Franco-American Naturalization club held an important meeting at the rooms of the Pawtucketville social club in Pawtucketville yesterday afternoon. President Olivia Poirier occupied the chair and considerable business was transacted. In the course of the afternoon it was announced that a great movement is now on foot to have all Franco-Americans of this city who are eligible to naturalization, take out their first or final papers.

The next meeting of the club will be held on the evening of Dec. 12 at the rooms of the Pawtucketville social club.

JOHN DOE INQUIRY
Dist. Atty. Whitman to
Place More Testimony
Before Grand Jury

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Pending the hearing of further testimony at the John Doe inquiry into charges that contractors on state jobs were coerced into making campaign contributions, District Attorney Whitman planned to place before the grand jury testimony relative to the allegations that James K. McGuire, former democratic mayor of Syracuse, violated that section of the corporation laws making it a misdemeanor to solicit from a corporation funds for political purposes.

James McGuire is said to be at present on his way to South America. His brother, George H., reluctantly described on Friday at the John Doe inquiry a scheme under which it was proposed to obtain state contracts for such corporations as contributed to the democratic state committee and gave, in addition, a commission on their sales to the McGuires. Corroboration of this, in a specific instance, Mr. Whitman expected to obtain today from Eugene Condit, a party worker.

It was understood that Condit would swear that James McGuire came to him in the summer of 1910 and volunteered a campaign contribution of $100 and a commission of one cent a gallon on all products sold the state to see that his materials were used. Condit says he refused.

Violation of the general corporation laws in soliciting a campaign contribution is punishable by a year in the penitentiary and a fine of $1500.

MATHEW INSTITUTE MEETING
Arrangements For Observance of the 32nd Anniversary to Be Held in January

There was a good sized attendance of members at the regular meeting of the Mathew Temperance Institute yesterday morning. Vice President John E. O'Neill was in the chair. A considerable amount of business was transacted.

The plans for the 32nd anniversary of the society in Lowell are advanced and the event is scheduled to take place early in January. The following are on the committee in charge of the arrangements:

Harry Welch, chairman; William H. Carey, secretary; George F. Brigham, James E. McKee and John M. Coughlin.

Arrangements for the annual social and dance were practically completed and the committee in charge of this event selected the following officers:

Michael J. Boyle, general manager; John E. O'Neill and Charles McGuire, assistants; Edward A. Welch, floor director; Robert J. Armstrong, assistant; Michael J. Sheffeld, chief aid; John J. Townsend, Bernard A. Connor, Peter H. Brady, Daniel P. McKenna and Andrew J. Welch.

Rev. Father O'Callaghan of Chicago, and Mr. Edward McLaughlin of Rockland, delegates to the anti-salcoholic congress held at Milan, have returned and have stated that the congress accepted an invitation to hold the next gathering in this country. Rev. Fr. Halloran, president of the Archdiocesan union, has appointed Secretary Wm. H. Carey as a member of the committee in charge of the annual evening party which is to be held in Boston some time in January.

Mr. George H. Brigham gave an interesting report of the work of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union.

Some of the members express the opinion that it would be well to return to the former custom of holding the meetings on Tuesday evening instead of Sunday. This matter will be taken up at the next meeting. There was also a tentative discussion concerning the holding of a reunion of present and former members. Pres. Sullivan, of the Bay State street railway, a former member has kindly consented to speak at this event.

Addresses were made by Frank Lincoln and John J. Baxter.

FREED OF MANSLAUGHTER

Copeman, chauffeur for William Elmonson of New York, was today freed from a charge of manslaughter, arising from the death of Charles Nichols, who was run into by Copeman's auto on Nov. 2. Judge Wentworth of the district court found that Copeman was not to blame for the accident.

Impure Blood
Is unhealthy blood—blood that is not only laden with poisonous and effete matters, but also deficient in red and white corpuscles. The medicine to take for it is HOOD'S Sarsaparilla.

Impure blood shows itself in pimples, boils, and other eruptions, eczema and salt rheum, psoriasis, catarrh, rheumatism, nervousness, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, that tired feeling, and general debility; it exposes you to the danger of contracting infectious and contagious diseases—the grip, typhoid fever, diphtheria, consumption.

Therapists testify that Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies, enriches and revitalizes the blood. If you need a good blood medicine get Hood's Sarsaparilla, and get it today.

HOLY NAME SOCIETIES
TO UNITE IN A UNION SERVICE IN THE NEAR FUTURE—DATE TO BE ANNOUNCED LATER

That all the Holy Name societies of this district are soon to join in a union service in Lowell, was recently decided, and it remains for the director of the societies to complete the final arrangements as to the date and place of this event.

Last Monday, the directors of all Holy Name societies held a congress in Boston at which important matters referring directly to the propagation of these organizations were discussed, and it was in connection with this convention that the directors determined to hold a union service in Lowell. Besides the societies of Lowell, there will take part those of Billerica, Chelmsford, Tewksbury, Ayer, and other adjacent towns. Nearly every Catholic parish has a growing society, while those in Lowell are especially large. Last winter a union service of the Lowell societies was held in the church of the Immaculate Conception and that great edifice was crowded.

The members of the various Holy Name societies will receive holy communion in the morning with the usual services and will hold the union services in the evening in one of the large local churches. There will be vespers, benediction, a sermon by a prominent speaker, and music by the specially selected Holy Name choirs.

Thanksgiving Services
The Thanksgiving services at the Catholic churches throughout the city on next Thursday will in most cases consist of the usual morning masses with sermons on Thanksgiving. At St. Michael's, however, there will be a solemn memorial mass for the deceased members of the Holy Name society which at eight o'clock at the church of the Immaculate Conception there will be a mass celebrated for the benefactors of the church; the parish mass at 9 o'clock. At the high mass on yesterday morning, the preacher spoke on topics appropriate to the Thanksgiving season, urging the spirit of gratitude to God for many favors bestowed during the past year.

St. Peter's
On Thursday, Thanksgiving morning, at 8 o'clock, there will be a mass celebrated for the repose of the souls of the deceased members of the Ladies' Auxiliaries of the A. O. H. and a large delegation of the members will be present.

The choir will soon begin rehearsals for the Christmas music, and it is expected that an unusually elaborate program will be prepared for that occasion.

Yesterday at all the masses, formal announcements were made of the fact that an opera will soon be presented in the Opera House by the members of the refectory of the Immaculate Conception of the parish.

St. Patrick's Choir Work
Numerous words of commendation of the singing of the members of St. Patrick's choir yesterday at the high mass at 11 o'clock, were heard this

WOMAN WAS ATTACKED

75 ANGRY MEN OF WALTHAM, ARMED WITH CLUBS AND GUNS, SEARCH FOR ASSAILANT

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—Armed with clubs, revolvers and shotguns, 75 angry farmers and farmhands of Waltham searched the woods in the lonely section near Bear Hill road in that city for two hours last night for a man who had leaped from the bushes and attacked Mrs. Anna Peterson of 155 Main street, Waltham, earlier in the evening.

When the searchers were about to give up their hunt, a man who lived gave the name and address of Merrick Chapin of 265 River road, Waltham, was arrested on Weston street, about a mile from the scene of attack.

FILE DONOHUE DEAD

Rector of Church of Immaculate Conception at Worcester, Passed Away at Age of 61

WORCESTER, Nov. 24.—The Rev. James Donohue, rector of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, died yesterday of heart disease at the age of 61 years. Previous to coming to Worcester in 1908, he was for 11 years rector of St. Mary's, Weymouth. He was born in Ireland, graduated from Holy Cross college in 1902, was ordained at St. Mary's, Weymouth, in 1904, and was later located in North Adams, Chicago, Philadelphia and Southbridge.

BANK PRESIDENT DEAD

LYNN, Nov. 24.—John McNair, president of the Lynn National bank and for more than 25 years a prominent figure in banking circles along the North shore, died suddenly at his home on Ocean street today. Death was due to apoplexy. Mr. McNair was born at Dysart, Scotland, in 1842.

STATE HIGHWAY NOW OPEN

The New State Road to Lawrence Practically Completed—Great Convenience to Autoists

The new state road between Lowell and Lawrence is practically finished, and is now open to traffic, although the large sign at the summit of First street to the effect that the road is closed has not yet been removed. Vehicles are permitted to go over the road which is in excellent condition with the exception of about 1000 feet opposite McMahon's greenery, and a short distance at the extreme end of the road near the Methuen line.

The cement bridge over the brook opposite McMahon's nursery is finished and it is a very pretty structure. The old bridge was removed and the place filled in, and it is believed the entire road will be completed in about a week.

The completion of this road will mean a lot for automobilists who have occasion to go to Lawrence, or any other point toward the sea, for this road is the last link to a fine macadamized road from the White mountains to the sea. It also means a building boom in Dracut, that portion extending along the Merrimack river, while the residents of the district will also highly benefit by this thoroughfare.

There is no happier man today than J. J. McMahon, who took an active part in agitating for this new highway. Ex-Representative Edgar Holt of Methuen was the first man to bring the matter before the legislature and it was at the instigation of Mr. McMahon that he did it. However, ex-Representative Hubbard and Butler also deserve credit for the building of the road, for they took the matter up when there was a hitch between the state and the county, and through their efforts an appropriation of $75,000 was voted and work was started.

Lowell and Dracut paid their proportionate share of the expense. Last year the sum of $55,000 was appropriated for the completion of the road, and the work was pushed along rapidly during 15 months.

Experts who have been over the road say this stretch of road from Lowell to Methuen is the finest in the state. It is well constructed and on a good bottom, and the panoramic view it affords to travelers is one well worth seeing. It is believed that within a week the workmen will leave the place and the road will be entirely finished. Contractor Wagenbach of Lawrence has charge of the work.

KILLED FOUR MEN

Slayer Fled to the Mountains at Salt Lake City with 100 on This Trail—Still at Large

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 24.—Showing a cunning that baffled pursuers, Ralph Lopez, who killed three police officers and a fellow Mexican last night was at large to the west of the Lake mountains.

Although more than 100 men, several of whom are among the best shots in the west, are on his trail, Lopez again exposed himself to their view with the same bravado that caused him to stand on top of a cliff last night and fire at a posse, and then leap at them when his bullets made them seek shelter.

About noon Lopez descended from the Lake mountains into Cedar valley, probably in search of food.

WEATHER SPOILS MEAT

No preparation had been made to keep the extra stock of meat in the coolers and a considerable percent of it spoiled.

The manufacturers had offered to guarantee steady work for the year round if the operatives would agree to the new list.

IMPORTANT TO RAILROADS RT. REV. BISHOP DA SILVA

Officials Ask Inter-State Commission for Authority to Increase Freight Rates

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Daniel W. Lora, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, Frederick A. Delano, president of the Wabash, and George Stewart Patterson, general solicitor of the Pennsylvania, appeared before the interstate commerce commission today to argue for authority to increase rates on all classes of freight traffic approximately five per cent east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers.

Though the proposed increased rates are asked by the railroads in the territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, the hearing is of the utmost importance to all the railroads of the United States for should the commission grant the authority for the increase it might extend the authority to the other railroads of the country. The commission will inquire whether the present rates yield adequate revenue to the common carriers and much testimony will be taken.

Pres. Delano's Views

Arguing on behalf of the Central Freight association lines, which takes in lines from Buffalo and Pittsburgh west to St. Louis, Frederick A. Delano of Chicago, president of the Wabash road, presented the claim of the railroads for the right to put into effect their tariff, increasing by five per cent their rate on commodity and class freights. This increased tariff was filed with the commission on Oct. 15 last and was to have become effective Nov. 15 last, but was suspended when the commission agreed to reopen the so-called 1910 case.

"The evidence," said Mr. Delano, "will show that the lines in Central Freight association territory are confronted with the expenditure in the near future of millions of dollars in the separation of grades in various cities on which they will receive no adequate return and many of the lines have not the credit to raise this money. A five per cent increase in rates will not be adequate to meet the demand for the territory. The rates in that territory, both freight and passenger, are the lowest rates prevailing in the United States and the interests of the people of that rapidly growing and developing section of the country, to say nothing of the carriers, require in the near future a readjustment of the rates, both freight and passenger, to a basis which will enable that territory to have good roads and the people to have sufficient and adequate service and to progress measurably with the other sections of the country."

Statistics to show that operating expenses have increased faster than gross earnings and that net earnings have returned nothing on new capital invested in the last three years were presented by George M. Schriver, vice president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

According to an elaborate table 49 railroads owning 53,670 miles of roadway with a total of 116,233 miles of track are concerned in the application for the rate increases. The figures, summarized were submitted to show that gross earnings from 1910 to 1913 increased $156,000,000, while operating expenses and taxes increased $201,000,000. Tax payments alone increased from $42,000,000 in 1910 to $54,490,000 in 1913 and the net operating income actually decreased $14,000,000. In the three years the actual property investment increased by almost $60,000,000. It required, according to the railroads' estimates, about $3.50 new property investment for each dollar of increased gross earnings and for each $1.56 of increased gross earnings increased expenses and taxes were $2.01 without allowance for new money spent to supply facilities to earn the increased gross revenue.

In 1910 the companies showed net operating income equal to 6.25 per cent on their property investment, but in 1913 that percentage had fallen off to 5.36 per cent.

The total capital obligations of the 49 companies the tables show are $6,383,000,000, of which funded debt is $3,300,000,000 and the rest capital stock. The companies last year in gross $1,424,000,000. Their net earnings after deducting expenses and taxes were $347,000,000. Their income after payment of interest and interest on funded debt was $206,000,000. Out of that income the companies declared dividends of 5.10 per cent on the capital outstanding amounting to $133,000,000, which is $19,000,000 less than the dividends paid out in 1909 and $7,000,000 less than the dividends in 1910.

RT. REV. BISHOP DA SILVA

Tendered Reception by the Portuguese Benefit Association—Recently Appointed Chaplain

An enthusiastic reception was yesterday tendered to Rt. Rev. Bishop Henri Da Silva, who is also pastor of St. Anthony's church, when he formally accepted the office of chaplain of Council 10 of the Royal Maltese Autonomic Benefit association, to which position he was recently appointed by His Eminence, Cardinal O'Connell.

The members of the local council of that society, gathered in full number in Leather Workers' hall yesterday afternoon and received the bishop on his first official visit to the society. He was unanimously elected an honorary member.

Bishop Da Silva was escorted to the hall from his Episcopal residence in Central street by a delegation of the members of the society. Arriving at the hall he was greeted with a rousing cheer from the members assembled there. The president of the council, Joseph F. Branco, delivered an impressive address of welcome after which other addresses were delivered by Manuel Santos, Manuel Pimentel and Mr. Barcello. Bishop Da Silva responded in a most eloquent manner, speaking his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him and congratulating the members on the good work of the society.

The local branch is one of the many which are scattered throughout the country and it is a very strong one both in the number and interest of the members. It was organized on October 17, 1905, and since that time has grown and prospered. The name of the local council 10, is Marques Da Praia E Montfort.

Following the formal reception yesterday afternoon, a general social time was enjoyed, refreshments served and an entertainment given. The officers of the society are as follows: President, Joseph F. Branco; vice president, Manuel M. Santos; secretary, Frank Tavoras; treasurer, Manuel Pimentel.

GRAY AND WHITE SQUIRREL IN TIE AND MUFF

Gray fur is always ideally becoming to the fair-skinned, blue-eyed woman, but everyone cannot afford chinchilla, or the equally beautiful and costly Australian opossum, and ordinary gray squirrel is a very fair substitute when muff and neckpiece are of modish shape. Illustrated is a very good looking set of gray and white squirrel, the big, flat muff being matched by a smart little tie.

Lee Farmer Takes No Chances During the Deer Season and Labels Herd of Cows

LEE, Nov. 24.—"Don't shoot me, I am a cow." The words in big black letters were displayed on white blankets worn by all the animals in the herd of a farmer during the open season for deer the past week. None of the cows was shot and the farmer insists the warnings had much to do with their safety.

WOMAN DIED AT 101

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Nov. 24.—Mrs. Spencer Dowsy, a resident of this city for 71 years and the oldest woman in the state, died here today. She would have been 102 next April, and ailments attendant upon old age were the direct cause of her death.

ENGINEER WAS SCALDED HEAD OF MAZDAZMANS

Boiler Tubes Blow Out, But Wm A. Carr, in Agony Saves Train-load of Passengers

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—By great bravery and presence of mind William A. Carr, sixty years old, an engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad, saved the Philadelphia-New York express yesterday morning when the boiler tubes blew out, filling the cab with steam and scalding him severely that physicians say he will die.

The train, scheduled as No. 140, left the Broad street station, Philadelphia, at 10:30 a. m. and was due at the station in this city at 12:53 o'clock. The train locomotive, built for high speed, hauled a baggage car, a smoker, three day coaches and two Pullmans—all seven of steel. Every seat was taken by passengers bound for New York and Trenton, the only stops on the fast run.

As the train pulled out of Trenton the engineer noticed that his locomotive was not making steam as readily as it should, and that he was falling a bit behind schedule, so he signalled the fireman to feed the coal into the firebox a bit faster. Then he opened the throttle another notch and got down to the work of making up time.

Was Going Sixty Miles an Hour

The express passed Millstone Junction at six miles an hour, and had reached a point half way between the station at Metuchen when there came a terrific roar, and the engineer's side of the cab was filled with steam. Carr was half blinded and his skin seemed to be scalded with a million needles. The veteran driver knew another train was ahead of him and that he must act before he became unconscious. With one hand he closed the throttle and with the other he shot the brake control full over, setting the brake shoes against the wheels until turning was impossible and they slid squealing along the rails.

As the brakes worked, passengers pitched forward in their seats, and several passing along aisles were thrown from their feet. The conductor and trainmen started for the doors and stopped to the ground as the train stopped.

Trainmen and Ground as the Train Stopped

The doctors wanted bandages and women passengers volunteered to provide them. They disappeared within the stateroom of the forward Pullman coach and soon came forth with cotton and linen in plenty. They asked if they could do more and were told they could stand by and aid the doctors. This they did willingly.

Meantime a trainman had been sent to a telephone to call up the nearest hospital. He found this to be St. Peter's hospital at Metuchen and he asked that an ambulance be hurried. That was done.

The ambulance was backed down to the track and gentle hands lifted the old engineer and placed him within. He was then hurried to the hospital, but little could be done for him, save to ease his suffering.

The accident held the train for an hour. At the end of that time the passengers were transferred to another train and sent on to New York. Carr lives in Philadelphia and is married.

SLAIN IN HALL

Man Mysteriously Shot Down in the House Where He Lived

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—As he stepped into the hallway of his home at No. 2431 Belmont avenue at 9 o'clock last night, leading his three-year-old daughter, Marianna, Frank Sarro, 46, for many years connected with the street cleaning department, was waylaid by two men, one of whom drew a revolver and shot him in the body, killing him instantly.

Luigi Chiacria of No. 2431 Belmont avenue, heard the shots and saw the two men as they dashed out of the hall-way, but in the darkness he could see them imperfectly and was unable to give the police a description of value. Chiacria entered the hallway and found the little girl standing dazed at the side of her dead father.

Detectives Repetto and Capibianco tried in vain to get from the child a description of the two men. The hall-way had been only dimly lighted and the child had little opportunity to see men. All the baby girl could say was: "Big light, like fireworks, papa fall."

Sarro lived at the Belmont avenue address with his wife and seven children. Mrs. Sarro could tell the police of no possible motive for the murder. She said her husband had no enemies as far as she knew, and that no Black Hand demands for money had ever been made on him.

TRIES TO KIDNAP GIRL

UNKNOWN MAN INVADERS A HAV- ERHILL HOME AND ATTEMPTS TO CARRY OFF ANNIE BUCCINI

HAVERHILL, Nov. 24.—The police today are searching for an unknown man who tried to kidnap Annie Buccini, the 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Buccini, from her home on River street, early this morning. The girl was awakened by the intruder, who was trying to take her out of bed.

The girl's cries awakened her sisters, who were asleep in the same room. The kidnapper jumped out of a window in the darkness. Mr. Buccini reported the attempted kidnapping to Patrolman Madden. A search was made in the Italian colony, but no trace of the man was found.

OFFICERS' SQUEAKING SHOES

Trouble the Women of Malden, Who Accordingly Protest—Rubber Soles Suggested

MALDEN, Nov. 24.—Creaking of police- men's shoes as they traveled over their beats in the dead of the night is so disturbing to Malden people that a number of women have waited upon Capt. Timothy Foley and urged that the men be equipped with rubber soles. Recently the Malden women started a crusade against night noises. Capt. Foley has agreed to consider the mat- ter of noiseless policemen.

"Inner Studies", Written by High Priest Hanish to be Read in Chicago Court

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—After describing "Inner Studies" as neither a religious book nor a treatise on sex hygiene but the "product of a licentious and de- praved mind," Walter Krimbill, assistant United States district attorney, de- clared to the grand jury in Judge Meek's court today that he would read the book in court.

"Inner Studies" was written by Otto- man Zar Adusht Hanish, a head of the Mazdaznan cult, with headquarters in Lowell, Mass. The society is said to have a membership of 14,000 members. The author is on trial charged with violating the interstate commerce law in having sent a copy of the press from Chicago to Miss Julia B. Gardner of Brookfield, Mo.

THE BEST MAN ON HAND

Dr. Grenfell Arrives at Washing- ton for White House Wedding Tomorrow—Other Guests

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, the Labrador coast mission worker and close friend of Mr. Sayre, who is to be best man at the White House wedding tomorrow, arrived here today. Mrs. Sayre, mother of the groom-to-be, was expected late in the afternoon to be a guest at the White House. Numbers of guests from Prince- ton also began arriving. Many mem- bers of the Princeton faculty and vet- eran residents of the town, who have been long and close friends of the pres- ident and Mrs. Wilson and their daughters have received the coveted invitations.

Although no guest list has been per- mitted to become public at the White House, it is known that the invitations have been limited almost entirely to the personal friends of Mr. Sayre, Miss Wilson and the two families. No invita- tions have been issued to senators or representatives as such, though a few have been invited and outside of the cabinet, the diplomatic corps and some high officials of the army and navy, the White House, where the members of the Wilson family have personally super- intended the work of unpacking and have made lists for future acknowledg- ments. Those guests who are members of the house party and some of the others who arrived today were treated to a view of the gifts, though it is understood the presents will not be on view tomorrow. The most valuable gift in the entire lot is the diamond pendant given by members of the house of representatives, and White House officials say the bride-to-be has been greatly displeased by exaggerated statements of the value of many of the presents.

One of the most striking gifts re- ceived is a pure white vicuña skin rug from the Peruvian vicuña and Ma- dame Pezet. Admiral Dewey and Mrs. Dewey have given a wonderful silver vase. Mr. Sayre's family has sent a complete set of small silver and a silver tea service. These, however, are only among hundreds of gifts which have been arriving almost hourly for the past week.

Secretary Bryan and Mrs. Bryan en- tertained Dr. Grenfell today at lunch- eon, a dinner was planned for this evening by the president and Mrs. Wil- son for the wedding party and relatives and later the officers of the president's yacht, Mayflower, were planning to give a dinner and dance aboard the ship for the immediate members of the bridal party.

The senate's gift was sent to the White House this afternoon after it had been viewed by members of the vice president's chamber. The elaborate silver service consisted of 15 pieces, the large service tray being engraved, "Jesse Woodrow Wilson, from the senate of the United States, Wash- ington, D. C., Nov. 24th, 1913."

FIRE IN CHURCH

Brooklyn Edifice Dam- aged—Priests Rescue Host and Monstrance

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Fire caused a damage estimated at $10,000 at the church of St. Mary Star of the Sea in Brooklyn. Rev. Frs. O'Malley, Curran, Ford and Delaney, after reassuring the aged Mrs. O'Connell, the rector, re- scued the host and the sacred vessels from the smoke stained altar and fire- men under Battalion Chief Rely put out the flames which at one time threatened the whole plant.

The church building is in Hamilton avenue between Luquer and Nelson streets. It backs up to a three story brick building known as the vestry. In the basement the fire started and the smoke was communicated to the church. The church building is one of the oldest in Brooklyn, but the marble altar is new and the priests directed a strenuous effort to protect it from the flames. It was not seriously damaged save for smoke.

The teaching sisters watched the fire from the windows of their house on the opposite side of Luquer street. A num- ber of Italians living in Dennett street nearby were hustled out of their tenements, but none was injured.

HEBREW MASS MEETING

HELD IN EAST BOSTON URGED ORGANIZATION OF YOUNG MEN'S HEBREW ASSOCIATIONS

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—The necessity of a Young Men's Hebrew association in every community where the number of Jewish residents makes it feasible and the successes of the associations already established, was the keyword of every address at the mass meeting held by the East Boston Young Men's Hebrew association at the Ohel Jacob Synagogue, Paris street, yesterday.

The local organization has done much owing to the zealous work of active members, and the meeting yester- day was to interest the whole com- munity. The meeting was opened by L. Shapiro and Abraham Eskin, who was chairman.

Among the speakers were Abraham Albert, Judge A. K. Cohen, Rabbi J. Jurman, Samuel Pinsnik, president of the local association; Max Ulin, 1st vice-president of the Associated Y. M. H. A.'s of New England and active worker in the East Boston associa- tion. The musical program was fur- nished by the East Boston association; Leo J. Lyons and Bernard Vernon. The musical program was furnished by the East Boston Y. M. H. A. orches- tra.

During the address references were made to the National organization, or- ganized Nov. 1, and which has already begun to aid the Y. M. H. A.'s of the United States in securing the proper programs and giving aid in carrying on the work. The National or- ganization has as members nearly all the leading Jewish furriers, bankers, business and professional men, and has already a fund of nearly a quar- ter of a million to carry out the pro- gram accepted at the convention.

The New England organization also held its convention a few weeks ago, and the present membership is upward of 10,000 young men, in 30 associations, and over 3000 young women connected with the Y. M. H. A.

The East Boston association is a live nation only in its own community but side weaker associations in other parts of New England.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—A remark- able likeness of President Wilson done in rare silks by a lovely Syrian in the Orient was presented to the president this afternoon on behalf of the Syrian colony of Buffalo. It was a repro- duction of a photograph the president sent last February in response to a request from Mansour Karam of Bu- fallo. Karam came to the White

Smith offered to at- tempt to find employment in the plant for Frank Duxall and Miss Mabel Le- lie, discharged union workers, whose removal caused the differences. If they would ask for a transfer to a different department than that in which they formerly worked. No absolute prom- ise was made to give them new em- ployment, however.

HOT LETTERS IN MAILBOX

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Pank- hurst or some of those English sur- frettes must have been around here," said a woman to Policeman Martin Kurnan, who was standing at Madison avenue and 73rd street, last night. Kurnan wanted to know why she said that and she pointed down to 72nd street, where smoke was issuing from a mailbox.

The policeman pulled up the letter slot. Out came a gust of flame. The policeman got a bottle of seltzer water from a drug store and put out the fire. A mail carrier found 23 letters. All of them burned so that the addresses were indecipherable. Who started the fire is not known.

THE DUTY OF ALL

At the 14th anniversary of the New York chamber of commerce held at the Waldorf-Astoria a few evenings ago, one of the leading republicans in the country in the person of Joseph H. Choate paid to President Wilson one of the warmest tributes he has received since his inauguration and supplemented it by calling upon the entire country to support him in what Mr. Choate termed "the most stirring thing that agitates the hearts of the American people today"—the Mexican situation. Apart from his distinguished position in national politics, Mr. Choate is better qualified than most to speak on international matters, for he has served in the past as ambassador to the court of St. James.

In a slightly sarcastic vein Mr. Choate in opening pointed out the presumptuous pretensions of many who assume an attitude of wisdom in dealing with the policy of the administration, for he declared: "There is only one man who knows that policy and he very wisely keeps his own counsel." He then went on to show the gravity of the situation and made the following splendid appeal to the patriotism of all Americans irrespective of political or other differences:

"It is a very trying situation; it is a very dangerous situation, but one thing I know and for one thing I appeal to the heart and the head of every gentleman present in this chamber tonight; that in this trying situation there is but one duty for all of us, and that is to stand by the president of the United States."

He did not make this appeal from merely sentimental considerations as was evidenced by what followed, for he said that he had confidence in the wisdom of the peaceful policy of the administration, based on the assurance that the chief executive and his supporters are in possession of facts concerning the situation of which people generally are ignorant. "You may call it diplomatic business," he said, "but it is fair to assume that the president is in possession of information vastly superior to that which even all of the members of the chamber of commerce possess. He knows what he is about. He knows what he is aiming at."

Of the possibility of armed intervention he declared, referring again to the president:

"One thing we are sure of, that he is for peace, that he is for preserving peace at all hazards, and that by no act of his shall this nation be plunged into a destructive and a dreadful war. He is entitled to that from us without regard to party and without regard to creeds. We must stand by our president through thick and through thin, and we shall come out right in the end."

Men like Mr. Choate, who under previous administrations wielded great power in political affairs can do a great service for the people at the present time, and his fine sentiments, finely expressed, show that he is not blind to the possibilities. The policy of President Wilson may not suit everybody, but it has kept us as yet out of dangerous entanglements and inhuman wars, and it has done this without sacrificing any national dignity or departing from the political traditions of the nation. Mr. Choate's appeal should be read and heeded for it outlines briefly what should be considered a duty by every patriotic citizen—support of the administration in the present difficult situation.

THE SERVANT GIRL QUESTION

Concerning the much discussed "servant girl" question there are many questions which would bring widely differing answers from employer and employee. Here's one of them: Why do most working girls refuse to go into domestic service? Everybody knows that they do refuse, otherwise there would be no servant girl question. At the time of the Lawrence strike when many bright young girls of foreign extraction were thrown out of employment without knowing how long they would be idle or what they would have to endure, they could not be prevailed upon to go to work in private homes, despite the fact that many households would be very glad to give them employment. And yet they were girls who worked in the mills from dawn till dark for a smaller wage than they would get doing housework, and were compelled to live in homes devoid of all the advantages which the average housewife enjoys.

The main objections of girls to housework seem to be that it restricts their personal independence and, through some unexplainable cause, puts them in a lower social scale than most working girls. They cannot tell definitely when they are to be at liberty and they cannot plan for enjoyment ahead, for on the evening they had hoped to go to the theatre with a friend, Madam has a little dinner party and they must stay at home. The mill girl knows that her work is through at 5:30 p. m. and from that on she is her own mistress; when there are her own parties or less informal the housewife is washing dishes at 9 p. m. and often later.

As far as the lowering of caste is concerned, it is ridiculous to say that a store girl getting $3.00 per week for work that requires little skill will turn up her nose at a well dressed cook that puts $6.00 per week in the bank. It is difficult to explain why this feeling exists but it would be foolish to deny that it does exist. It is a very small matter but it is an example of a condition that keeps girls from the womanly and dignified duties of housework.

Again, the very name "servant" is obnoxious to most girls who might be considering taking up housework, and there is some justice in their view. All who work in any capacity are "servants"; even the president refers to himself as the servant of the people. The bestowing of the unwelcome title, therefore, on any class exclusively tends to remind them that they are designated as belonging to a lower social work, and as the difficulty can be surmounted easily, the calling of those who do housework "servant girls" should be discontinued. There are many other little matters slight in themselves and easily adjusted which would go a great way towards solving the troublesome "servant girl" question.

A CLAIRVOYANT RING

In Judge Walker's court, Chicago, two men have just been found guilty of wholesale swindling as leaders of what has been termed a "clairvoyant ring," operating through the west. In the aggregate the profits of the ring were stated as one million dollars, and in individual cases over $12,000 had been gathered in from some deluded follower of the occult. One of the favorite games of the leaders and their aids was to reveal pretended opportunities in bogus investments and then offer to make the transactions. Though this case was tried in Chicago, it reminds us of similar occurrences far nearer home. The exploitation of the unknown has been a lure to many who have been made wiser and poorer by the clever manipulations of the clairvoyant.

In matters of this kind the deception is so evident that it is difficult to understand how any reasonable person can be misled. People have gone and will again go to mediums of every variety for advice concerning financial and other matters, forgetful of the fact that if the clairvoyant knew where a million or so could be made he—or she—would not bother about unveiling the future to the general public at fifty cents per head. But there is a fascination for some people in getting their "fortune" told that they cannot resist. It may be based on vanity for some psychological phenomenon, but certainly it is that since the days of the witch of Endor, and before, revealing what is to come has been found a profitable occupation by many besides the leaders of the "clairvoyant ring" who have just been found guilty of fraud in Chicago.

In many leading cities of the country the telling of fortunes has been forbidden by law, for aside from the fraud often attached to the practice it was used as a cloak for other unlawful ways of making money. Not all the activities of sincere investigators of psychical mysteries are based on a desire to defraud the public, but there is enough of trickery revealed by court revelations to make silly people pause before spending money for the purpose of wringing secrets from the mysterious unknown.

LOAFERS

New York is at present waging a vigorous campaign against the loafers who hang around the waiting rooms of department stores and render themselves very objectionable to patrons, particularly to women and girls. Eleven were arrested in one of these places at one time. It is significant that though unless loading round such places is of itself punishable, the culprits had added to their general uselessness the annoyance of the public. What New York has done in this instance might be done advantageously by all cities. Waiting rooms of railroads, hotels and other public places have a special attraction for the fraternity of work haters, and as idleness begets viciousness, they often become real menaces to the public in the course of time as well as a corroding influence on any youth unfortunate enough to get into their blissing circle. Authorities should not wait for the more evil inclinations of loafers to develop but should aim at curtailing them by preventing their congregation in public places.

Seen and Heard

The man who dumped a basketful of bank notes on his fire for kindling set an extravagant pace for wealthy spenders. He was fairly outdone, however, by the financier of whom it is told that he was so rich that he never used a mop—car more than once, had a gold-topped hat worth 17 fancy waistcoats at a time, and his house was a perfect revelation.

It was in New York state that Mr. Miller came upon a community where the Indians had been for years, and meeting an old fellow on the highway, asked him his business.

"Well, well," commented Mr. Miller, "what do they pay you?"

"Ten dollars," grunted the Indian.

"Ten dollars a month?" asked Mr. Miller.

"No, ten dollars a year! Why, that's a poor salary, isn't it?" gasped Mr. Miller.

"Me poor preacher," grunted the Indian.—Catholic Citizen.

Inscriptions in complimentary copies of learned works do not always serve the graceful purpose to which one was dedicated by the celebrated Professor Wilson of Edinburgh.

When the sultan for the hand of Professor Wilson's daughter had gained the young woman's approbation, she of course referred him to her father.

Having stated his case, the younger gentleman was asked to bid the young lady to come to her father.

Her obedience was prompt.

Prof. Wilson had before him for review a ponderous volume, on the flyleaf of which was duly inscribed, "With the author's compliments."

He tore the fly-leaf out, pinned it to his daughter's dress, solemnly led her to the anxious lover—and went back to his work.—Youth's Companion.

STRIKES AND ADVERTISING
Portland Express: Portland is getting a great deal of undesirable advertising out of the state of the longshoremen. Canadian, Boston and New York papers lose no opportunity for showing under big headlines the story to the effect that they may get a share of the steamship business that has always come to this port.

Brooklyn Enterprise: President Wilson couldn't attend the dinner of the Rochester, N. Y., chamber of commerce, so the chamber has asked if he will deliver a speech by telephone. It is said he may do it, and if so each of the 600 members of the chamber will be equipped with a telephone and hear it all. MANHATTAN CLUB MET

At the regular meeting of the Manhattan social club, held yesterday afternoon, considerable business was transacted and an excellent concert program was carried out. Charles Emerson presided and in opening he spoke of plans for the coming season, and urged all members to cooperate with the officers in advancing the work of the organization. He said that the annual social of the club will be held in January and announced an entertainment will precede the dancing. Other members spoke on the work of the club and nine new members were initiated. After the business session, the Honey Boy Minstrels gave a pleasing program. The concert was given under the direction of William Carr, Linwood Knapp and John Willoughby. Each and every member was heard to advantage and at the close of the program, which it one of the most enjoyable entertainments ever given in the beautiful rooms of the organization.

HOW YOU MAY THROW AWAY YOUR GLASSES

The statement is made that thousands wear eyeglasses who do not need them. If you are one of these unfortunate, then these glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear "wind-downs" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Opton; fill a two-ounce bottle with water and drop in one Opton tablet. With this harmless liquid solution, bathe the eyes two to four times daily and you are likely to be astonished at the results right from the start. Many who have been told that they have astigmatism, eye-strain, cataract, sore eyes, weak eyes, conjunctivitis and other eye disorders, report wonderful benefits from the use of this free prescription. Get this prescription filled and use it; you may so strengthen your eyes that glasses will not be necessary. Thousands who are blind or nearly so, or who wear glasses, would never have required them if they had cared for their eyes in time. Save your eyes before it is too late. Do not become one of those victims of neglect. Eyeglasses are only like crutches and every few years they must be changed to fit the ever-increasing weakened condition, so better see if you can, like many others, get clear, healthy, strong, magnetic eyes through the prescription here given.

TALKED ON SOCIALISM

Rev. Skinner Says Government is Superior in German Cities

Rev. Pinkham on Expressed Appreciation—Other Services

At a well attended meeting in "The Forum" series at Grace Universalist church, last night, Rev. C. R. Skinner said that socialism had brought about a system of self government in Germany so satisfactory that immigration from that country had long since ceased. He said that Germany is far ahead of America in the matter of city government and he gave municipal ownership as one of the assets of the German scheme of government.

"If there is any place where true democracy should prevail," said Mr. Skinner, "it is in the city, and especially the American city. But, instead, we find our city life drifting away from that condition, and for a standard we are forced to go to Germany, where a clear social vision and a sense of responsibility give to the average city marked superiority over our cities."

"The German city is superior in its administration because it makes no distinction between rich and poor in the matter of equal rights. Its idea is to give the worker as much pleasure and as much health as his richer brother, so far as governmental methods can bring this about. Intelligent attention to all channels by which the municipality may become a force of good for the people as a whole has wrought wonders for German cities."

"In America, the idea of city administration has been to elect the most popular man, without respect to his fitness for the responsibilities that the man assumes. The German plan is to prepare men for certain duties in Germany's city government. Colleges have been established to train seriously for the great task of governing, and when a man is elected to office, the people are confident that they will receive at his hands efficient management."

First Baptist Church
At the First Baptist church, Sunday morning, Rev. H. S. Pinkham preached on "Expressing an Appreciation."

To say the kind thing first, he said, was one of the best ways to do good with your correction and admonition. Many people are liberal in many respects, but stingy with their appreciation. The kind word helps greatly in personal work. It helps make your own life more cheerful and helpful to others. But let us never forget that all we have and are comes from God. Let us always be sincerely thankful to him, and not be guilty of the sin of ingratitude. "In everything give thanks."

Elliot Congregational Church
The annual harvest concert by the Sunday school of the Elliot Congregational church was held last evening. All of the Sunday school classes brought gifts. Accompanying the offerings were exercises in which the full strength of the Sunday school was rallied. The classes which participated were those of Miss Clara Haine, Melvin Smith, Mrs. Sabrey Bancroft, Miss Katherine Ward, Deacon Charles Fiskings, Deacon James Fiskings, William J. Blake, Mrs. Hady, Miss Mary Fletcher, Miss Maude Smith and Miss Bernice Fiske.

A brief address was given by the pastor, Rev. Herbert A. Barker, and the choir sang "Thou Crownest the Year With Thy Goodness" (Maker) and "Harvest Hymn" (Hanscom).

First Universalist Church
A special Thanksgiving service was held at the First Universalist church last evening. There was a fine musical program and the pastor, Rev. Caleb E. Fisher, preached on "Things to Be Thankful For."

He said that during this season of Thanksgiving we should try and look upon that side of life which has provided us with the happiness and pleasure which make our lives worth the living. "Let us be generous," he said, "in our endeavor to see things as God would have us see them, and impart the spirit of brotherhood to others so that the world in general may be the better for it. Forget the enmity of the past and look to the future with all of the happiness and joy that it contains and seek it out. It is there if we will only strive to locate it. There is something for us all if we ask and look for it. Social redemption may be brought forward to a marked degree by developing that brotherly love and generous spirit that is needed to make it. Let us work more together, then, that the bright and pleasant things of life may be ours as they should be. Let us not forget God in our thanksgiving, for it is from him that all joys come."

Sporting Editor Describes Feature Plays in the Harvard-Yale Football Contest

(By Sporting Editor of The Sun)

Although many Lowell people attended the Harvard-Yale football game at the Stadium Saturday afternoon the majority of local football fans were not fortunate enough to procure seats and were obliged to depend upon the press for the account of the contest. With this thought in mind The Sun has issued an extra with a full account of the game to its minutest details on the front page and with the score—15 to 5 in Harvard's favor conspicuously displayed. The football extra was on the street less than ten minutes after the referee's whistle had blown for the last time, and was eagerly bought and read by the fans.

The game was all that it was expected to be. Charley Brickley came through with his wonderful kicking toe in even better style than anyone expected. Coach Haughton expected of him. After the game in the locker room the Harvard head coach expressed himself as not at all surprised by the five field goals scored by Brickley. "He is a natural kicker," said Coach Haughton, "and would have kicked one of the two he missed if the pass had been perfect."

Yale was outclassed but would not admit the fact until Brickley's fourth boot went soaring between the uprights. Even after the last score had been made, Wilson sought vainly to end an ongoing in order to put over a touchdown on Harvard but the Crimson defense was allright and Yale was forced to kick.

Gurnsey, the Yale fullback, did all that could be reasonably expected of him. His field goal was a beauty but it was the only kick that he was not hurried on. Even when punting the Yale kicks had to be hurried in order to avoid being blocked by the Crimson forwards. The much talked of Yale rush line fought hard but were unable to stem the fierce rushes of their opponents on all kick formations.

The logical score was really one lone field goal for Yale. The score at the end of the first half would have been 6 to 3 if Frank O'Brien, the Harvard end, had not thought he was completing a touch back when he grabbed the ball and carried it behind his own goal line. A Yale punt hit the Harvard uprights and bounded into the field of play and O'Brien carried the ball across his own goal line and touched it down. The referee called it a touch-back but after a few minutes spent in argument the play went as a safety for Yale with two points in the Blue column.

Everything taken into consideration it was a far more spectacular contest than that of last year. Wilson and Mahan ran back punts in masterly style and the crowd was breathless with suspense every time that either man caught a punt. Brickley's long run and the various skin tackle dives that netted Harvard so many yards were all of a thrilling nature and served to stir the blood of the most sluggish spectator. It was a game which those who spent many times the price of admission by buying tickets from speculators, did not regret attending.

Harvard broke two records Saturday. They defeated Yale for the first time in the Stadium and they won two games in succession from their blue-jerseyed rivals for the first time since the two institutions first played an annual gridiron match. It was a great day for Harvard men.

LOWELL Y. M. C. A. DEFEATS NASHUA AT BASKET BALL—GRANT AND COTE WERE THE STARS

The Lowell Y. M. C. A. basketball team, the first team to play the Employed Boys' five, gave their Nashua opponents a bad beating Saturday night at the local gym. The teams from up river were not in a class with the local aggregations.

The game between the first teams was not close but was interesting, nevertheless, on account of the fast team work displayed by the Lowell team. Jimmy Grant and Hervé Cote were the stars of the contest, each player getting eight baskets from the floor. Billy Grant made his initial appearance of the season and relieved Wood during the latter part of the game. The final score of the contest was 31 to 16.

Between the halves of the big game the Employed Boys of each association fought it out. Lowell won this game by the score of 25 to 14. Greenwood was the star of this contest with no less than ten baskets from the floor to his credit. Hamblett of the visitors got five baskets. The lineup and summary:

BUNTINGS DEFEATED

Olympics of Lawrence Put It Over the Local Team by the Score of 3 to 2 on Saturday Afternoon

The Lowell Bunting club met defeat Saturday afternoon on their home ground at the hands of the Olympics of Lawrence by the score of 3 goals to 2 in a fast and interesting game.

The final score of the contest was in doubt throughout and it was impossible to pick the winner until the last whistle had been blown. Both teams fought hard for every foot they advanced the ball. Clegg of the Buntings and Butler of the Olympics were the individual stars of the game. The lineup:

Athletes and Athletics

Mayor O'Donnell hooted the pickin' before the start of the Indiana-Army A. A. game on the fair grounds. The Indian played good football and succeeded in scoring a touchdown on their Lawrence opponents and this proved to be the only score of the game. A large crowd turned out for the game.

Hardwick's work Saturday was magnificent. The manner in which he boxed his tackle was missed by those in the stands but a gliding view showed up the wonderful manner in which this player ran his opponent out of the path of the runner. Neither Brickley nor Mahan would have been able to pull off his long run if Hardwick had not provided perfect interference.

The Harvard team lived up to all the good things Coach Haughton said about it before the game. Every man was on his job, the only mislay coming from Frank O'Brien pulled his bone head performance. Dana, who took O'Brien's place at the end when the latter again hurt his knee, played gilt edge football.

There were a great many Lowell people at the Harvard-Yale game and the majority of them were rooting for the Crimson. Dan Donahue was one of the Lowell contingent who went wild every time that Charley Brickley's boot added three more points to the Harvard score.

The Harvard-Yale game in Boston, at least, attracted as much attention from the public at large as did the world's series. Mounted police were necessary to clear the streets in front of every newspaper office and thousands of people who could not procure seats stood for several hours in front of the various megaphones listening to the returns of the game.

Lowell high will line up against Lawrence next Thursday in the down river city for their last game of the season. The Lawrence team is not very strong this year but is building up a scoring machine for this game. The two teams have always been rivals and a bitterly fought game is sure to be the result.

The All-America team picked by the Boston Post this morning is as follows: Center, Ketcham of Yale, Guards, Penney of Harvard and Brown of the navy; tackle, Ballin of Princeton and Talbot of Yale; ends, Hogsett of Dartmouth and Hardwick of Harvard.

Larry Whitney, the Dartmouth strong man and picked by many for this year's All-America aggregation, has been chosen leader of the Green eleven for next season. Whitney should make a great general for the Hanover college.

Charley Brickley, will, beyond a doubt, be elected captain of the Harvard team for next season. This is the premier goal-kicker's third year at the Cambridge institution where he has shone for two seasons on the varsity track as well as on the gridiron.

quarier, Miller of Penn. state; fullback, Brickley of Harvard; halfbacks, Whitney of Dartmouth and Mahan of Harvard.

While Miller of Penn. state is a great quarier without dispute Ghee of Dartmouth has played a more spectacular game all season. His work has outshone that of Miller in every contest. Baker of Princeton is also a great back and is not a whit under Mahan in offensive and defensive ability while his drop kicking ability stands out formidably.

The American league's statistician has just issued the official figures for the 1913 season. The Athletics stand at the top of the batters with an average of .385. Boston is in second place with .369. In individual batting Cobb leads with .350, with Hendrickson, Boston; Jackson, Cleveland; Speaker, Boston; Collins, Athletics; Baker, Athletics and Lajoie following in this order.

The work of Captain Ketcham of Yale was a revelation to the spectators. The big Yale lineman was down the field on punts like a grayhound and when he hit a runner that runner got up wearily. Ketcham dove into Mahan once with such fierceness that his team was penalized for unnecessary roughness. There was nothing dirty about the play, however, but simply a demonstration of hard football.

The work of Captain Ketcham of Yale was a revelation to the spectators. The big Yale lineman was down the field on punts like a grayhound and when he hit a runner that runner got up wearily. Ketcham dove into Mahan once with such fierceness that his team was penalized for unnecessary roughness. There was nothing dirty about the play, however, but simply a demonstration of hard football.

ON THE PANAMA CANAL

Colonel Goethals, Chairman and Chief Engineer, Submits Report to Secretary Garrison

No definite date for the official opening of the Panama canal is set in the annual report of Col. George Goethals, chairman and chief engineer of the canal commission, which has just been submitted to Secretary Garrison at Washington. Neither is there any prediction of when the ships may first pass from ocean to ocean. The first day of the canal's actual operation still depends upon the treacherous slides of Culebra cut and how fast the dredges can keep the channels open.

the opinion that the water may to some extent develop new slides. Again much ado was made in 1909 over the seamy character of rock on the isthmus, through which water flows quite rapidly, in consequence of which the question was raised that the lake might leak out through seams and crevices.

"If these things are liable to occur, the sooner the better, if the official opening of the canal is to occur Jan. 1, 1915; for if water were not admitted this fall but were deferred until May 1, 1914, the full height could not be reached until October, 1914, leaving little time for the determination of these questions. These considerations led to the conclusion that the water should be turned into the Cut at the earliest date practicable for getting the dredges to work on the slides.

"The present plans, therefore, are based upon the blowing up of Gamboa dike on Oct. 10, its removal by dredges immediately thereafter, the transfer of two suction dredges and a ladder dredge to the Cucaracha slide, the smaller dipper dredges to work on the other slides until the full width of the channel is attained, and the passage of vessels through the canal as soon as channels of full depth and of sufficient width have been secured.

Remove Gamboa Dike
"Before the boats can be passed it will be necessary to remove the Gamboa dike by dredges and to remove the slides as already outlined. The passage of commercial vessels is dependent, therefore, upon the time when proper channels can be dredged through the slides; should additional ones be cut, they will necessarily advance the date when this will be accomplished."

The canal proper, exclusive of the approaches, the machine shops and warehouses and great ocean docks at either end, would have been completed during the last fiscal year, but for the extensive slides in the Culebra Cut. And to deal with the great problems involved in the removal of the slides no effective way was found except the bodily displacement of vast hills. The slides and breaks increased as the cut was deepened.

"No treatment has proved effective for slides which once developed, except that of excavating and hauling away material from the moving mass until the slide comes to rest or until the angle for the particular material in motion is reached," said Col. Goethals.

Last year it was predicted by geologists that the slides had been conquered and that little more activity could be expected because all the loose surface soil and stone had almost slid off, exposing great ridges of solid basalt rock which would act as barriers to further earth movements. Yet, when all was most promising and the canal excavation had gotten within 50 feet of the bottom of the cut on the east side, the rocks broke under the tremendous pressure and 2,000,000 cubic yards of material slid into and closed up the cut.

Since then, the canal workers have been digging away that material and though there have been several slides, steady progress has been made, for not only did giant dredges work on the face of the slides, but powerful hydraulic monitors, such as were extensively used in hydraulic mining on the Pacific coast, were brought into play to wash away the treacherous hills from the rear, carrying the material into unused valleys distant from the canal.

Engineering Problem
A great engineering problem was involved in the solution of the question of continuing the excavation of the canal by steam shovels or by hydraulic dredges and Col. Goethals for the first time makes an official statement of the reasons which impelled him to choose the wet method.

In brief these were based on the apprehension that Gamboa dike would not be strong or high enough to keep the water out of the cut as the Gatun lake rose in the wet season. Also, for shovel operations would be retarded by the seasonal rains which would not affect the operation of the dredges and finally the measure was one of economy. It would have been possible, with the shovels, to have removed all of the slides by January 1, 1914, next, except the Cucaracha slide which could not have been entirely carried off before April, 1914.

High Cost
The financial operations of the canal are told in big figures: The disturbing order has paid out $10,324,705 on pay rolls alone so far, and has appropriated $149,505,223 for canal construction, of which $10,675,850 went for fortifications.

In great detail Colonel Goethals tells the story of the engineers' work during the last year and with particular satisfaction it is reported that the mechanism of the vast locks and dams was tested with perfect success. The gates at Gatun were swung in one minute and fifty seconds, for each leaf. The heavy iron chains which are depended upon to prevent an unruly vessel from crashing into the locks were raised and lowered in ample time to meet any emergency, and demonstrated their ability to check or stop any vessel unless of very great size and moving at excessive speed. The locomotives which will tow the ships through the locks were tried out and proved their ability to easily handle the largest of vessels and the electric installation which will involve the use of a current of 44,000 volts pressure was completely successful.

Altogether the technical sections of the report seem to demonstrate the accuracy of Colonel Goethals' statement of practically nothing but the great slide at Cucaracha remains to prevent the successful operation of the canal.

PRISON REFORM

Foss Says 10,000 are Sent to Jail Only for Poverty

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—"Out of 27,000 sentences each year to Massachusetts jails and prisons, approximately 10,000 are not for any crime whatever, but only for poverty," said Governor Foss in a statement issued last night. "This happens," he continued, "because the law has permitted judges to throw into jail persons who are too poor to pay small fines."

The governor announced an intention of devoting considerable time to prison reform, upon retirement from office, as he had become greatly impressed with the injustice of the present system. He urged that every man sent to jail should be given an opportunity to earn money for the support of his dependent family.

SONG OF THANKSGIVING

ST. ANNE'S CHURCH CHORUS HELD SPECIAL SERVICE LAST NIGHT AND RENDERED RICH MUSIC

The parishioners of St. Anne's church were given a fine opportunity to listen to excellent music last night, when the church choir which is composed of men and boys rendered in a charming manner Maunders' beautiful cantata "Song of Thanksgiving."

The service was held in the church, which was well filled, and the rather difficult music was rendered by the choir of 35 voices without any outside assistance. The opening number was "O Come Let Us Sing Unto the Lord," and this was rendered with a precision and a charm which reflected much credit on both the singers and the director and organist, Charles Brown. The latter and Miss Alice Rogers Leith gave a duet with organ and piano that was most pleasing.

Miss Alice Rogers Leith presided at the piano and the soloists were Arthur Smith and J. Vansteenberg, tenors; Frank Mills and Harry Priestley, basses; Teddy Fletcher and Archie Campbell, sopranos.

HIGHLAND M. E. CHURCH

REV. DR. BIRNEY, DEAN OF BOSTON SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY, THE PREACHER YESTERDAY

At the Highland M. E. church, yesterday, L. J. Birney, Ph. D., D. D., dean of Boston University school of theology, preached at the morning service and in the evening the preacher was Rev. George R. Dean, superintendent of the Worcester division.

Dr. Birney preached from the text "God is Love," and in opening, said: "Of the three words said to be sweetest in our language, one is home."

"We are just now nearing that beautiful season when hearts all over this great country of the stars and stripes, again turn back to the old home fireside, and the way these thousands will turn back to be far little while under the old roof tree. What is it that makes the heart thrill at this season? It is the consciousness of parental love. Take that out, and you have utterly shattered the home feeling. What is it that gives up a season of warmth and comfort in the soul? It is the consciousness of a heavenly father's love. Take that out, and you have shattered the very substance of our Christian religion. Our heavenly father loves us. I have uttered in these words, the summing up of all the theology about God."

The New Munsey Magazine

A radical overturning of old theories in magazine making. A complete book-length novel takes the place of the serial story. A $1.50 book and a standard illustrated magazine all in one. No longer any "Continued in Our Next" in Munsey's Magazine. Everything complete in each issue.

I HAVE made this sweeping change in Munsey's Magazine, cutting out all serial stories, for the reason that magazines built on old lines have lost their grip on the public. The day for the serialization of novels in monthly periodicals is gone, and gone forever.

The public is no longer willing to wait from month to month for fragments of a novel, the whole story dragging through six or eight or ten months. And the novel is the great pulling force in periodical publications. Without it, magazine circulation as a whole, that is, normal, spontaneous circulation, not bargain-counter circulation, would drop perhaps eighty-five per cent.

Weekly publications, Sunday supplements of the daily press and the dailies themselves have usurped the place of the monthly in the presentation of serial stories.

But the monthly magazine has its place. It can do what the dailies and weeklies cannot do. It can publish a complete book-length novel in a single issue, and this "puts it all over" the serialized novel, however ideally presented.

This new move of Munsey's Magazine opens up a new field of wider usefulness and wider popularity for magazines. It gives them a definite work to do and solves the problem of furnishing new books to the public at a price well within the reach of all.

In initiating this broad policy in magazine making, Munsey's Magazine has given the public something new and something big. The complete novel in Munsey's for December (Christmas issue) is

by

George Barr McCutcheon

It is as good a novel as McCutcheon has ever written, and McCutcheon stands with the very first in popularity among the novel writers of the present time. A gauge of his popularity is found in the fact that in book form, at $1.50 a copy, his novels sell up into the hundreds of thousands.

In Munsey's Magazine "Black is White" will cost you 15c; in book form it will cost you $1.50, and in Munsey's Magazine you will get it first—get it before it has ever appeared elsewhere.

The complete novels in Munsey's Magazine are not mere novelettes, but full-length book novels. Make no mistake about this. Of course, the publication of a book-length novel complete in one issue of a magazine means a mammoth magazine in reading pages. Munsey's Magazine is a mammoth magazine in reading pages—228 pages this month. Magazines running along on old lines give, on an average, say three serialized novels a year. Munsey's Magazine will now give twelve complete novels, which means $18.00 worth of books a year.

Quite apart from the complete McCutcheon novel in the December Munsey, it is a very splendid Christmas magazine, rich in illustrations and generous in short stories, articles, and such miscellany as goes to make complete a standard illustrated magazine. Get the December number of Munsey's Magazine and see the kind of a magazine it is. Seeing for yourself means something.

GOT WRONG BODY KILLED BY AUTO

Girl Paid for Shipping Supposed Corpse of Her Missing Fiance Machine Struck Poie at Franklin, N. H., and Turned Turtle

AVOCA, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Miss Ella Rynders of this village, not only has the estate of her fiance, James Greene, a farmer, who disappeared on the eve of his wedding day, to look after, but in addition now has the body of an unknown man, probably hundreds of miles away from his relatives, on her hands.

The body, which was positively identified by Thomas Hatch in Jackson, Mich., Thursday, as being that of Greene, the missing bridegroom, arrived here last night. One glance was enough to prove to Miss Rynders that she had paid the expense of bringing the body of an unknown man to this village, and now she is in a grief-stricken state.

How Hatch, who knew the real Greene, could have mistaken the man killed in Michigan for the missing bridegroom, puzzles people here. It is said that Greene little resembles the dead man.

Last night the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Greene, who has not been seen since he went to Rochester to buy his wedding outfit several weeks ago, is as deep as ever. The supposition here is that he is a victim of asphyxia and is roaming around somewhere. Search for him will now be taken up with renewed vigor.

stantly killed. Her skull was fractured by the impact.

Bennett and Mrs. Josephine Philbrick, who is his housekeeper, were both stunned and badly shaken up. Fortunately, they were thrown clear of the overturning automobile and escaped the falling body of the machine as it flopped over in the road.

Mrs. Philbrick was taken to the Franklin hospital and Bennett to the police station, to be later released in $500 bonds to appear in court when called.

Bennett is a member of the firm of Gray & Bennett at East Tilton, where he also owns a summer hotel.

With his mother-in-law and housekeeper he started yesterday morning to visit friends in Saugus. The police say his machine was traveling at a high rate of speed when it struck this town.

On the main thoroughfare, Central street, the auto skidded on the wet macadam roadbed and struck a telegraph pole, rebounded on the road and turned over.

The body of Mrs. Leavitt was taken to the Bennett home, and after physicians treated both Mrs. Philbrick and Bennett they were likewise assisted to East Tilton by friends.

JOY RIDERS IN COLLISION

Wealthy Woman Injured in Auto Crash After Attending Football Festivities—Other Wrecks

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—A young woman wearing an expensive Russian fur coat, estimated to be worth thousands of dollars, was severely injured and five other people had narrow escapes from death, when two automobiles came to rest near the Wellington bridge, Somerville, early yesterday morning.

The young woman who is believed to be a resident of the Back Bay was taken in a helpless condition to the office of Dr. A. K. Paine of 366 Commonwealth avenue and was later taken to her home. Dr. Paine last night refused to tell her identity.

Incidentally the accident caused the fathers of two Boston young women to hunt through the hospitals all day Sunday, and to ask for police assistance in locating their daughters, who, they had heard were either killed or severely injured in the accident.

The greatest efforts were made to conceal the accident, and at the time all concerned declined to give their names.

The accident occurred when a car driven by A. H. Schoellkopf, a wealthy student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, living at Buffalo, N. Y., who was with a girl, said to be a well-known society girl, returning from celebrating the Harvard-Yale game at Faneuil Hall, collided with an automobile driven by Howard Weston, a wealthy man of Showbag, Me., who had with him A. W. Spencer, 20 Lowell place, Arlington Heights; Miss Mabel Clark and Miss Olive Bullock, of Wyman street, Jamaica Plain.

The Weston party had been in Boston and Cambridge, where they were preparing to take part in a play to be given by the Newton club. About midnight Weston started for Portland, Me., and after much pleading on the part of the girls, their mothers allowed them to accompany him, with the understanding they were to go to the home of friends as soon as they reached Portland.

Both Cars Wrecked

Friends warned them not to take the regular route to Portland, on account of the joy riders who would be returning to Boston from automobile resorts. On that account they chose the Wellington bridge route, but just before reaching the bridge, they noticed Schoellkopf approaching.

According to the story of the driver, Schoellkopf was going at a high rate of speed and zigzagging from side to side, taking up the whole road. Weston claims he saw him coming and was almost at a standstill when the Schoellkopf machine crashed into him. Both cars were practically wrecked.

Schoellkopf and his woman companion were thrown out of their machine and from the Weston car the two girls and Spencer were thrown out.

Passing automobiles took the two girls in the Weston car to the Spencer home in Arlington, where they remained all night, not returning home until about 10 o'clock last evening.

Schoellkopf's companion, who appeared badly injured, was rushed in another car to the residence of Dr. A. K. Paine, 366 Commonwealth avenue. She arrived there about 2 o'clock. The elevator was shut down, and she was carried upstairs into his office, as she was not able to walk.

At Dr. Paine's house it was stated she was a regular patient, and a member of a well known and wealthy family. She is said to be severely injured from the effects of the accident. She was attended by the doctor and later sent to her home in another automobile.

It is said she will be confined to her bed for some time to come.

Saturday evening before the accident Schoellkopf had been entertaining a party of young women at Faneuil Hall and started for Boston at a late hour. According to others at the time, he was accompanied by a woman, who he said she possessed the most beautiful furs in the city of Boston.

FOOTBALL PARTIES IN AUTO SMASHUP ON COMMONWEALTH AVENUE, BOSTON

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—Several persons narrowly escaped serious injury when two automobiles collided at the corner of Exeter street and Commonwealth avenue yesterday afternoon. One of the automobiles in collision, owned by A. J. Hoe of 132 West 86th street, New York city, was badly smashed. The other machine escaped with the loss of one spoke of the forward left wheel. None of the occupants was injured.

It appears that the Hoe party had come to Boston to attend the Harvard-Yale football game on Saturday. In the wrecked machine with Mr. Hoe were Mrs. Hoe, E. L. Ostendorf, of 823 West Broadway, New York city, and a woman whose name could not be learned.

According to one of the passengers in the Hoe automobile, the party was proceeding down Commonwealth avenue on its way to the Hotel Bellevue. At the intersection of Commonwealth and Exeter street a big touring car in charge of a man giving the name of W. A. Bacon, the Chester, New Haven, and having as occupants two women and another man, dashed along Exeter street and tried to cross Commonwealth avenue. It is said that this machine was going toward the left of the avenue and tried to avoid a collision, while the driver of the Bacon machine applied the brakes, but without avail. The two automobiles crashed, the forward wheels locked and the machines skidded across the avenue to the curb, the wheels of the Bacon machine cutting the roadway for several feet.

The Bacon automobile had a cardboard automobile number sign with the Illinois number 75044, and according to the records at the Motor Mart, left that place at 12:45. A chauffeur who was standing outside the Hotel Lenox said the party stopped at the hotel, and that when they drove away just before the accident he predicted they would come to grief at the rate of speed they were going.

The automobile owned by Mr. Hoe had its forward right wheel smashed and also the right guard.

WILD AUTO RUNS DOWN POLICEMAN, FELS THREE, SHAKES UP RIDERS AND WRECKS MACHINE

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—A large touring car, occupied by six persons, went on a joy ride of its own yesterday in Medford and before the car could be brought to a stop, a Metropolitan police officer was carried to the police station in a semi-conscious condition, an elm tree was overturned, part of the machine was wrecked and the occupants were severely shaken up.

The machine, owned and driven by Hiram Cohen of 20 Nantucket avenue, Boston, and occupied by James Cohen, Miss Rose Norman, Miss Rose Cohen, Miss Esther Singer and a friend, all of the same address, began its wild career when it skidded on Marchant road, near Main street, on a section of the Revere beach boulevard.

Mr. Cohen, who was at the wheel, lost control of the touring car, which began to whirl around and around on the slippery tar-coated boulevard, carrying the passengers in a dizzy spin. A lurch brought the machine racing at high speed straight up the boulevard. The passengers clung to their seats as the machine crashed against an elm tree beside the road, breaking the tree off near the ground and carrying with it the entire hood of the machine and the mud guards, beside wrecking other parts of the touring car.

With the machinery still purring at a rate of 40 miles an hour and the occupants crying for aid to Police Officer Randall, who was several hundred yards beyond, the automobile started a zig-zag course, swerving from one side of the road to the other. Officer Randall was not quick enough in avoiding the wild machine as it sped toward him, and was struck a side blow, knocking his feet from under him and hurling him into a thick growth of brush at the side of the road.

After a mad dash of a half a mile Cohen brought the machine to a stop and went back to hunt for the injured officer, who was still lying in the clump of bushes.

RAIDED BY POLICE

$2000 in Liquors Was Seized From Braintree Club—Two Trips Made

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—The Cedarcrest Outing Club on Quincy avenue, East Braintree, was raided yesterday morning by Chief of Police Horace W. Hunt and Patrolman Jeremiah J. Gallivan of East Braintree, and by Chief Burrell, Sergeant Bishop, Inspector Goodhue and Officers Riley, Duffy, Black, Sweeney, Cahill and Ferguson of the Quincy force.

While the raid was in progress nearly a score of autos stopped at the place, but chauffeurs and occupants beat a hasty exit, and several private suppers were robbed of their wines and unceremoniously ended by the raiders. Among the latter were some New York people and members of the sporting fraternity regaling themselves after the Harvard-Yale football contest.

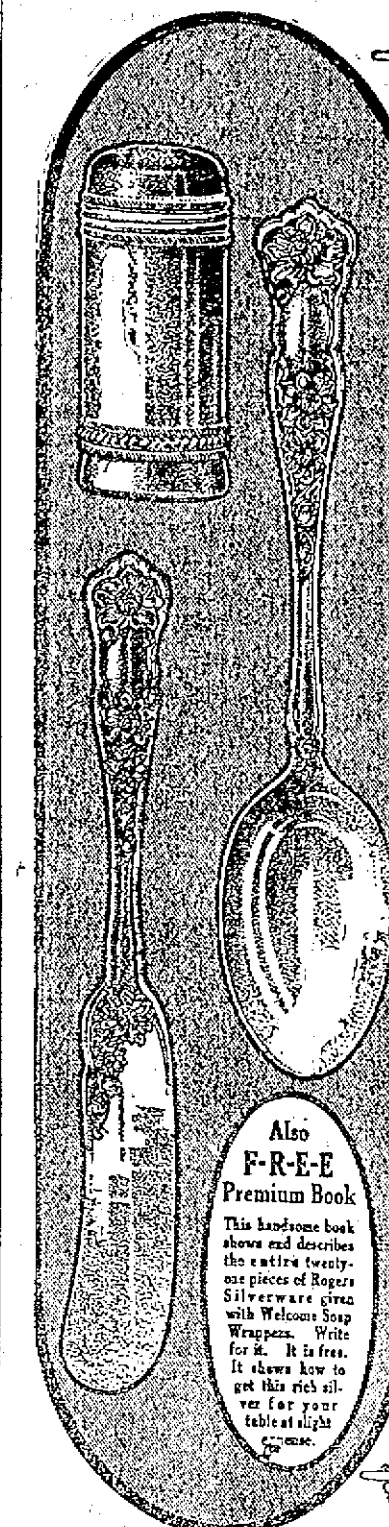

The place has been conducted by Mrs. I. Grace Reynolds, who has been assisted by her two daughters, both young women of prepossessing appearance, a bartender, his assistant and a half-dozen young men, neatly attired as waiters. They were so overcome with surprise that they offered no resistance to the raiding officers, who made a thorough search, from the barroom on the first floor rear to the wine storage room on the third floor.

The contraband goods included five cases of champagne, three cases of imported sherry, four barrels of ale, 500 bottles of Bass ale and porter, gins, brandies, wines of rarest vintage and credits galore to the value of nearly $2000. It required two trips of the auto truck belonging to the Quincy police department to take the seized packages to Quincy, where they were stored awaiting court action.

STOLEN IN 70'S

Man Thinks That Mosaic Bought for $1 Was Taken in Big Robbery

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—The rare Italian mosaic purchased at a Boston rummage sale for $1 by a Nantucket man last week is now believed to be the gem which was stolen from a well known Boston jeweler's wife in a big summer hotel robbery at Nantucket away back in the 70's, and for which an almost country-wide search was conducted, for years afterward.

Dr. Charles Harwood of 536 Commonwealth avenue, who read a description of the gem bought by the Nantucket man at such a ridiculously low figure at the rummage sale, thinks it tallies with the mosaic which was stolen from his mother in a Nantucket hotel at which she was spending the summer, more than 40 years ago.

Dr. Harwood has communicated with the Nantucket purchaser, and says he feels sure that if it proves to be the same mosaic that was stolen from his mother, a flattering offer will be made for it by his father, Willard Harwood of Medford, who is the proprietor of a large wholesale jewelry concern in Boston. He thinks his father would be willing to pay many times the intrinsic value of the gem to possess it again after all these years because of sentimental associations connected with it.

The mosaic which was stolen from Dr. Harwood's mother was a gift brought from Italy by the elder Mr. Harwood, and was Mrs. Harwood's favorite jewel.

C. S. FORESTRY SERVICE

Future Timber Supply Must Depend Upon Private Forests, According to C. A. Sterling

WASHINGTON, November 24.—After the remaining virgin timber of the United States is exhausted, forest supplies will have to come from national forests, state forests, or from privately-owned land; but federal and state forests, according to C. A. Sterling, director of the American Forestry Association, who addressed the national conservation congress this afternoon, constitute only one-fifth of the total forest area of the country.

"On private land," he says, "the timber of the future will be given such growth which has sprung up voluntarily on cut-over land and has managed to escape fire, or that from areas which have been devoted to forest protection as a business enterprise. So far the practice of private forestry has been mainly confined to small operations, often more for pleasure than for profit. An intensive forest policy on a scale large enough to establish its commercial feasibility, has not yet been undertaken."

"Private forestry in the United States has been retarded by many influences

among which the more important are large stored-up timber supplies, comparatively low stumpage and lumber values, lack of market for many minor forest products, and a public sentiment which has not realized that forest production is essentially the growing of successive crops.

"Present tendencies in private forestry indicate a more logical development than at any time since forest conservation became an issue. Instead of attempting to put immediately into effect complete policies and an intensive management which are scientifically correct, the things now being attempted are the logical steps which will ultimately lead to systematic long-time management of private forest lands. The private owner is learning that forest protection is possible and that it pays. With this fact established, other things will be taken up and worked out until the progressive (American) owner will find that he is practicing the kind of forestry which pays in this country."

"In a word, private forestry, as it can be properly practiced in the United States today, is not the intensive forestry of Germany, but the application of protective and close utilization measures with provisions for natural regeneration. These principles, applied as economic conditions permit, will build up the art and practice of forestry in America."
